U. S. ASSERTS MANDATE RIGHTS

UNITED STATES FORCES ON WATCH IN CENTRAL AMERICA

700 HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ENROLL IN TWO DAYS

Allies Must Consult America Before Disposing of Any Former German Colonies—Claims Equal Trade Privileges and Sets Forth Its Status in Territories

By NEWTON C. PARKE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—The suggestion that conditions might arise which would call for a blockade of the United States as a non-member of the league of nations was made in debate in the league assembly meeting this afternoon.

Lord Robert Cecil, in discussing the report of the committee on blockade charged that it completely dodged the question of what the league would do if the United States supplied a nation which the league had decided to blockade. M. Schanzer of Italy, chairman of the special disarmament commission, replying to Lord Robert, said that the league must either make arrangements with America or blockade the United States also.

Wants Peace Action

Prince Dowleh of Persia, expressed hope that the committee on mandates "gives satisfaction to the just claims of America."

"The whole world is turning its eyes towards the Washington conference because the league of nations had done nothing but talk about disarmament, without taking any action," added the Persian delegate.

Announcement was made that Venezeula has ratified the international court of justice and arbitration. The election of judges will take place next Wednesday.

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—The United States in its latest mandate note to the allied powers, insists that America shall have the same rights in mandatory territories as members of the league of nations, it was learned here today.

The text of the American note has been received by the delegates of the allied powers attending the league of nations assembly meetings from the various allied foreign ofices.

Declares Participation

It is understood that the American note raises the following points:

1. America reasserts that the allies must consult her before disposing of the former German colonies.

2. American insists that she have the same trade rights in mandate territories as members of the league of nations.

3. No mandate shall be modified without the consent of the United States.

4. The American note meets the allied argument that the United States did not war on Turkey and consequently has no voice in the disposition of Turkish colonies by asserting that Turkey would not have been defeated if the United States had not fought Germany.

5. The American note suggests that capitulations be maintained in Syria, Palestine and Mesopotamia until effective governments can be established in those countries.

Retard Disarming

It is learned that all prospects for any real progress on disarmament at this session, have been severely retarded by the flat refusal of England and France to "interchange full and frank information," regarding armaments, though pledged to do so in Article 8 of the league of nations covenant.

Unemployment in the United States came in for attention at the league of nations assembly today.

M. LaFontaine of the Belgian delegation, in criticising the report of the league council, referred to both American unemployment and the Russian famine as two outstanding cases of world misery.

The Belgian statesman condemned the council for "presenting a dry, statistical report containing nothing that offers hope to the world."

Lord Robert Cecil's resolution asking that the class A and class B mandates be defined at once was referred by the assembly to the committee handling political questions.

Dr. Nansen, head of the international relief work for Russia, made a two hour speech, offering a resolution to refer the question of relief to a committee of the assemby which would make an appeal to all governments to issue credits. Dr. Nansen before coming to Geneva negotiated an agreement with the Moscow soviet in which the latter requested an international loan of $50,000,000 to aid famine and cholera sufferers. The British have already refused to participate in any such international loan, asserting that Russia is bankrupt and could not repay and also because the soviet did not give guarantees that were satisfactory to England that the food purchased with the money would not be diverted to the Red army.

SAMARA RELIEF IS MAKING HEADWAY

SAMARA, Russia, Sept. 8.—via Moscow and London, Sept. 9.—Anna Haines of the American Society of Friends (Quakers) who has had much previous experience in arranging famine relief in Samara, told the International News Service today some outstanding facts of the misery now prevailing here, and of the headway made by the relief workers.

"Six government relief institutions have been opened since May," said Miss Haines. "Those have handled mainly the relief of abandoned children, which is a tremendous task. First of all the suffering little ones have to be distributed among hospitals and orphanages and the handling of the evacuation trains is a separate task.

"A typical case is that of an institution which planned to take care of sixty cases and now has 400. More arrive daily and the place is flooded with sick and hungry tots.

"It is not unusual to see four children in one bed. Other hundreds have to sleep on the floor. Sheets, blankets and soap are sadly lacking and it is impossible to bathe them properly or even cleanse their clothing.

"The main meal for the entire group of 87 children consisted of six loaves of black bread, and a bucket of thin cereal soup made from potato peelings."

H. C. L. ADVANCING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—In the face of widespread unemployment and stagnation in the agricultural and industrial lines the cost of living continues to mount higher and higher.

This was shown today when the bureau of labor statistics issued figures showing that in 15 principal cities in the United States the retail cost of food increased from one to eight percent during the period July 15 to August 15.

HUNTER MEETS KALES

DELMONTE, Calif., Sept. 9. — Dr. Paul Hunter seemed certain today to retain his title as amateur golf champion of California. The title holder was scheduled to meet Frank Kales of the Claremont club today. While Kales has been showing excellent form, it was generally conceded his more experienced opponent would come through winner.

MRS. EDWARD ROSS.

ROY GARDNER, DEAD OR ALIVE, ORDERS JAIL WARDEN

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 9.—"Shoot to kill," was the order which Warden Thomas Maloney today gave searchers for Roy Gardner, the noted mail bandit, who escaped from federal prison at McNeil's Island Monday night.

Maloney and other officers who are working on the case not only believe Gardner is still on the island but think the desperado will ultimately make a dash for liberty and that he will not hesitate at murder, should he consider killing would help him to get away.

There are some unoccupied cabins on McNeil's Island in the section where Gardner disappeared. It is possible Gardner looted one of them and secured food and clothing, for which he exchanged his prison garb.

MORE MEMBERSHIPS FOR C. OF C. ARE FILED TODAY

The committees that are working on the problem of securing new members for the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, are getting down to business. Although the greater part of yesterday was spent in completing plans for this work, ten new applications for membership in the chamber were reported to Assistant Secretary Sanders at chamber headquarters this morning. This result is indeed encouraging, and it is expected that when things are in full swing, two or three times this number will be turned in each morning by the chairmen of the different committees.

The applications turned in were from the following persons and firms:

Edwin Kretchmer, 317 North Orange street; H. F. Lincoln, 227 North Jackson street; William T. Darch, room 5, Rudy Block; Dolberg Studio, 206 West Broadway; R. D. Estes, 2515 Canada boulevard; Louis LeMesnager, R. F. D. No. 11, Box 52, Glendale; Dr. Kate Sheppardson Black, 1895 Kenneth road; L. C. Davis, Grand View and Sixth street; W. Arthur Smith, 106 West Harvard, and Drs. Eble & Eble, 228 South Louise street.

For a number of reasons, it has been decided to extend the time granted the workers in securing the 300 new members for the chamber. The dinner which will be given for all members securing at least one new member, will be held on the evening of September 30, at a place to be selected later.

BURGLARS FOILED BY E. G. BEYLIK

An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to rob the establishment of E. G. Beylik, 1511 South San Fernando road. Mr. Beylik was interrupted in his work about 12:30 a. m., by two men who tried to force an entrance. He said they made several attempts to get him outside, and when he refused they said they would get him another night. An attempt was made by the same men to enter the plumbing shop next door.

Mr. Beylik obained a very good description of the men, and police are trying to locate them.

WOMEN APPOINTEES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — Women were assured of representation today at the forthcoming conference on unemployment which will be called under the supervision of Secretary of Commerce Hoover within the next two weeks. Ten women are to be nominated for appointment.

WHOLESALE GROCERS PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The national wholesale grocers' association today filed a protest with the department of justice against any modifications of the recent court decree which divorced the big packing concerns from their grocery interests.

United States Troops and Warships Are Kept Under Arms Ready to Take a Hand Should Threatened Trouble Boil Over—Panama Situation Is Critical

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—All of Central America is fast becoming a cauldron of trouble which may boil over at any moment in serious fashion, it is said in official circles today.

The whole situation is such that diplomatic and naval officials are watching very closely every development and are prepared to act promptly. Naval forces for come time have been kept within hailing distance of this region, under the directions of the commander of the so-called "special service squadron." This squadron, organized some months ago, is designed especially for quick action on the turbulent coasts below our southern borders.

It was learned today that in view of the threatening state of affairs in Central America, these forces have been augmented and it is known that naval units have been on the scene of threatened trouble in Nicaragua and nearby points, including Panama.

The outbreak in Panama, and particularly the one now going on in Nicaragua, is regarded by officials as merely an indication of what may happen later on a greater scale.

Already marines are occupying Haiti, Santo Domingo, Nicaragua, Cuba, and are hovering near Panama and Costa Rica, ready to take a hand in those countries at an instant's notice.

Costa Rican Dispute Ends

The end of the long dispute between Panama and Costa Rica over the Coto district, which at one time caused open warfare between the two countries and led to the dispatch of sharp notes and a battalion of marines from the United States, was signalized today.

The State Department was officially informed that Costa Rica has accomplished peacefully the possession of the district and there was no trouble.

BANDITS RANSACK ANTHONY MANSION

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif., Sept. 9.—While C. W. Sahland, general sales manager for Earle C. Anthony, millionaire automobile man and Mrs. Sahland were held prisoners in a closet, both bound and gagged, two men looted the palatial Anthony home here last night and escaped in an automobile, stolen from the Anthony garage.

Silverware valued at more than $5,000 and 220 cases of assorted liquors valued at close to $10,000 were taken by the bandits. Mr. and Mrs. Sahland, who have been living in the Anthony home while the family is on an eastern trip, returned home last night shortly after 9 o'clock. The bandits met them with guns, bound and gagged them and imprisoned them in a closet. The bandits worked until well after midnight collecting their loot. It was sometime before the Sahlands could free themselves and give the alarm.

MEXICAN GUM SHOE UNION

(By International News Service)

MEXICO City, Sept. 9—Disciples of Sherlock Holmes, Monsieur Decoq and Old Sleuth are forming a union here.

The detectives think they should unite to keep salaries from dropping to the starvation point while they protect society from the unregenerate and have completed a preliminary organization, with Juan Manuel Cabrera as president. Senor Cabrera is said to be a solver of mysteries with considerable reputation in Mexico.

The Detectives' Union will keep out gum-shoe men who lack ideals and have a tendency to forget professional ethics.

Detectives of the police department, it is reported, will be included in the organization.

WOMAN PAINTS PEN PICTURE OF MISERY IN FAMINE ZONE

By BESSIE BEATTY
I. N. S. Special Correspondent

SAMARA, Russia, Sept. 9.—A block from the surging mass of traders that fills the market place in this part of Russia's death district, scene of grotesque contrasts, a woman sat by the roadside, huddled over a bit of sacking. She turned her face to me; she was dumb with misery. She tried to speak but her voice was so faint I couldn't hear her.

I stepped down and pulled back the sacking. A boy of four, the last of her family, lay there. He was dying slowly. Hunger does not hurry.

I gave her bread. She laid it aside. It was too late for bread. She asked me for something to bury him in.

A few yards away sat a child of ten. In her arms she held a thing that had long since ceased to look like a baby.

Two thin claws clutched, monkey-like, at a cranberry. Life was fighting there, avaricious, tenacious.

"He fights for milk and I have none," the child said.

I gave the tot some bread and milk from a bottle I was taking back to a friend on the boat. The baby seized it greedily.

Beyond was a boy of 12, trying to comfort another baby whose mother was in the hospital. The child was a pitiable picture of hunger. A Cossack peasant woman, with seven of her own to feed, saw him. She snatched up the baby, sat down at the roadside, tore open her dress, nursed the child and went her way.

In Saratov, I heard two women talking in that terrible dead monotone of the hungry, which is more tragic than sobs.

"It is all the same wherever we go," one said.

"Wherever we go we'll die. I want to go back to the farm and die with the others," her companion answered.

There was a little girl with them, too weak to speak.

"I had a boy, too, yesterday," said the mother. "He died last night."

Before we arrived, thousands of peasants had left their villages, but the receipt of seed from the Government stopped the exodus.

DR. RUSSELL AND HER COMMITTEE DINE

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the committee in charge of securing new members to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in the northeastern section of the city, met with her committee in the parlors of the White Inn on Wednesday evening. The meeting was held immediately preceding the membership blanks and literature distribution. Nine of the 11 members of the committee were present and much enthusiasm was manifested. The members of the committee who were present were Mrs. Mabel Tight, Mrs. Jack Thomas, C. E. Kimlin, S. L. Roland, Dr. Caroline Paine Jackman, Mrs. E. D. Yard, W. S. May, Mrs. E. W. Hayward and the chairman, Dr. Jessie A. Russell.

WOMAN DUCKED BY TRAIN

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Fred Shroder, of Beaver Falls, suffered a "ducking" and lost $66 when, as she was walking across a railroad trestle, a train struck and tossed her into the river below. The purse in her hand opened. It contained $154 in bills. The bills were scattered on the flowing waters. Rapid work by swimmers of the train crew salvaged $88. Mrs. Shroder was rescued.

Two Days' Registration at Institution Indicates That Congestion This Fall Will Be Serious Handicap to Both the Scholars and Instructors

The two-day regstration at Glendale High Tuesday and Wednesday resulted in an enrollment of about 700 students. In spite of the fact that this is Admission Day, a few registered this morning.

There will be no further registration until high school opens Monday morning at 9 o'clock. At that time students already registered will find their assignments to roll rooms posted in the main hall.

Report to Roll Rooms

Students already registered and others as soon as they are enrolled, will repair to their roll rooms, where their daily program will be furnished them.

After all the students have secured their programs, the teachers will meet their classes according to program schedule assign lessons for Tuesday, and give out books.

School Sessions Continuous

This year school work will be continuous and there will be no noon hour when all the students will be away from school. Luncheon in the cafeteria will be served at two periods, half of the students being assigned to one and half to the other.

Parents who wish their children to come home to lunch must send in a written request to that effect. Otherwise, students will be expected to remain on the grounds and eat lunches brought from home or patronize the school cafeteria, and any interval of leisure they may have can be pleasantly spent on the new courts which have been made for indoor baseball, handball, volley ball, etc., or in the gymnasiums.

School Day Begins at 8:15

The first classes will meet at 8:15 and the school will then be in continuous session until the closing hour at 3:25 p. m.

Students are to be divided into groups of from 20 to 25. Between the second and third periods, there will be a short roll-call period, when these groups will report to their class teachers and receive all announcements of events of the day in which they are interested.

The place on the program for assemblies has not been fully worked out. It will be necessary to have two or three assemblies to reach all the students, for the reason that the auditorium will accommodate less than half of those in attendance.

SEVEN WOUNDED BY VOLSTEAD AGENTS IN SHIP RAID

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Two Greek sailors, found wounded in their bunks aboard the Greek steamer King Alexander today, brought the total wounded when a boarding party of prohibition agents stormed the ship early in the morning, to seven, one probably fatally. In addition, a body, believed to be that of one of the prohibition party, was found floating in the harbor, near the scene of the fight.

As a result of the ship storming, which comes close upon the heels of the capture by prohibition agents of nearly a million dollars' worth of high grade whiskey on the water front, the local prohibition office has $125,000 worth of cocaine and liquor, seized aboard the ship.

Prohibition Officer Frank J. Fitzpatrick, followng the raid, shot and killed himself in the washroom of a ferry house on the shore, near the ship's moorings. The reason for so doing is unknown.

ILLINOIS MINERS AGREE TO TRUCE

By KENT WATSON
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Ill., Sept. 9.—Threat of the use of state troops today appeared to have established an armed truce here in the "bloodless rebellion" of Southern Illinois miners. Union mine leaders, it was reported, have quieted all talk of an armed invasion of this city and Rosiclare.

Several hundred miners, however, are still encamped in the hills surrounding the two cities. This "army" according to union leaders, is merely living in the hills to avoid violence at the hands of the operator's "army."

SALES TO NEW RESIDENTS

Lee Thomas reports several sales which will bring new residents to Glendale as follows:

Purchase by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reese of Los Angeles of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Root at 401 West Elk, the buyers to take possession next week.

Purchase by Mrs. Ruby Wayne of Phoenix, Ariz., of home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Herms at 115 West Elk street, and the purchase of still another piece of property by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gafford. Mrs. Wayne is the owner of a large sanitarium in Phoenix but expects in the near future to make Glendale her home.

PEACE POSSIBLE IN CONFERENCE IS IRISH BELIEF

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

DUBLIN, Sept. 9.—Ireland believes that peace now lies ahead. Sinn Fein leaders today expressed satisfaction over the action of the British cabinet in withdrawing all the previous limitations for peace conference and making the single condition that Ireland remain within the empire. There are indications that the Sinn Fein leaders will not press their demand for a republic. Little doubt is felt that Eamonn de Valera will accept the invitation to a peace parley at Inverness on September 20 and the republicans believe that he can now do so without compromising his position.

AUCTION JOBLESS

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—A professional auctioneer is to take the place of Urban Ledoux when he continues the sale of his "slaves"—men out of work—on Boston Commons today. Ledoux announced his intention of continuing his "slave market" until the conscience of Boston is aroused and the unemployment problem solved.

Thirty men, many of them veterans of the world war, were in the group offered to the public today under the auctioneer's hammer. All they asked was a chance to work.

The action today followed a similar "sale" yesterday when 15 men, stripped to the waist like the slaves in the old southern markets, were put up. Only one was "sold" and he brought but $2 a week with his board, while a dog was bid in upon the same block for $25. The $2 bid for the human being was made by a woman.

OH, PRESS, S. O. S.!

A lusty cry for help came from Dan Hunsberger yesterday. He wanted two plumbers pronto, so he advertised in a Los Angeles paper that is supposed to always bring home the bacon. Not one satisfactory answer did he get, so he concluded to try The Daily Press. One little ad brought man after man, so Dan called up the Press and said: "For goodness' sake, take out that ad. I've had so many calls in response to it that I'm all tired out turning them away."

Daily Press ads DO bring quick results.

A CONSOLIDATION OF SOUTH GLENDALE CLUBS EFFECTED

San Fernando Road Improvement Association and Gateway Club Combine

An enthusiastic and important joint meeting of the San Fernando Road Improvement Association and the Glendale Gateway Club was held last evening in the municipal building at the corner of Brand and Los Feliz road, to consider the consolidation of the two bodies.

It resulted in a vote to combine and reorganize under the name of South Glendale Improvement Club, with officers as follows: Stuart Street, president; George Schram, first vice-president; C. L. Brenkman, second vice-president; Mrs. E. V. Bacon, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. W. R. Blair presented the reply of City Engineer Hill to the request for additional water pipes at the Cerritos avenue school, as a matter of fire protection. The report was not encouraging and was the theme of considerable discussion because it was felt that a two-story frame building, crowded as that will be when school opens with children, should have every possible fire protection. Officers were instructed to continue negotiations with the city in regard to the matter.

The congestion of the Cerritos avenue school was also the theme of debate, and a committee of officials was requested to take the matter up with the Board of Education, to ascertain what steps can be taken to relieve the situation.

The reorganized club will hold its next meeting at the same hour and place, Thursday evening, September 15, when reports will probably be made by the special committees.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Luster at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant! Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

YOU WILL ENJOY THEM!

I'VE SOME REALLY WONDERFUL NEWS FOR YOU! Did you know that the grocery business at 244 North Brand boulevard, near California street, that was formerly known as Bush & Son's, will now be NUSSBAUM'S GROCERY AND MEAT MARKET? Yes, indeed, for Mr Nussbaum has just bought it and is remodelling the entire store! But who is Mr. Nussbaum, you ask? Well, I'll tell you! Several months ago Mr. Nussbaum came here from New York and New Jersey, where for the past twenty years he has been engaged in the wholesale and retail grocery business operating as many as five stores at one time! 'Tis rumored, that as soon as he came into Glendale, he knew it was just the town he'd been looking for! And, he says now, that no one will ever be able to get him away again! So, he sent immediately for his family, bought a lovely little home on Lexington drive and is now seftled in Glendale to stay! Mr. Nussbaum, who, by the way, is one of the new members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, believes that there is no reason why he cannot sell better goods for less money, or at least as cheap as the big city grocers! And, really there isn't, for due to his years of practical experience, he knows how to buy the best quality for the least money! It is Mr. Nussbaum's desire to offer to the people of Glendale such low prices that they will soon see the wisdom of the slogan he has adopted—Buy at Home! And, speaking of prices, I was simply astounded at those he quoted on well known staples such as every housewife knows! You'll hardly believe it when I tell you that the best cane sugar is only 6½c per pound; Fresh roasted coffee in bulk, for 20c a pound, and, think of it—Campbell's soups, and Pork and Beans for 10 cent a can! The famous Kellogg's Corn Flakes and Post Toasties are only 10 cents a package; Borden's Evaporated Milk, 10 cents per can; while Eagle Brand Condensed milk is 20 cents a can! White King, Lennox and Ben Hur soaps, he is offering at 5 cents per bar! The delicious Golden Age, egg noodles, spaghetti and macaroni, Mr. Nussbaum has marked 8 cents per package! All of their canned goods have been as materially reduced.

There are many, many housewives in Glendale who'll be glad to know that their friend Mr. Kriske, who was with Bush & Son, and has been known as one of the best butchers in the country for almost thirty-five years, is to remain in charge of the meat department! Yes, and Mr. Kriske has promised to uphold Mr. Nussbaum's standard in offering only strictly fresh and first class meats at less than city prices—and that to prove it these are only a few of the specials that he's promised for tomorrow! Round steak at 20 cents a pound, and Porterhouse steaks, the choicest cut, for only 30 cents a pound, while legs of lamb and loin lamb chops are only 25 cents per pound. 18 cents a pound is the price he has put on Rump Roast and Veal Roast, and as for Veal steak—will you believe you can buy it for 30 cents per pound? But these are only a handful of the super-specials which are being offered, and which will be offered daily, for all other meats have been reduced in proportion!

And, I know you'll just love to do your buying at Nussbaum's, for there is such an air of friendliness—everyone is personally interested in seeing that you're properly taken care of, and know just what they have to offer! And, this is the secret of Mr. Nussbaum's success—Personal Service, is to him, the paramount issue—and Personal Service and Courtesy are the two main factors in his store.

Just such phenominal specials as these, about which I've told you, will be offered, not once a week, but every day at Nussbaum's—and they also have a free delivery twice daily—just call Glendale 91 and before you know it your order will be at the door. Won't you stop in and make the acquaintance of Mr. Nussbaum and his interesting family? I know you'll enjoy it as much as I have!

And look over their specials too, while you're there.—244 North Brand boulevard, don't forget!

THE PERSONALITY OF THE AMPICO

HAVE YOU HEARD the marvelous Ampico at the BARNES SHUCK MUSIC COMPANY, of 211 North Brand boulevard? Well, one must hear it to fully realize the extraordinary personality, which it possesses, or, rather, the multitude of personalities, for each of the artists who has played for it finds in the Ampico his very self, and the impressions left with the hearer is that he has heard the living pianist! In all great piano playing it is the pianist's touch and tone that are dwelt upon by critics, in judging of his work. "Touch" is much more than merely playing the notes—! Each must be given its particular blow or caress in order to bring out the real beauty and meaning of the music! It is this minute consideration of the tonal value of each note, that imparts to his playing the exquisite singing tone and variety of tonal shading, which all great artists employ in delivering the musical message. It is these delicate differences which disclose the personality of the artist! It is again these delicate differences and little personal touches which are reproduced by the Ampico. The marvelous mechanism of the Ampico, when combined with the excellent workmanship of the Knabe piano, gives us an instrument of the highest type. The Knabe with its exquisite tonal beauty, when reproducing the playing of the great artists through the Ampico, reaches a plane of perfection that is unapproachable!

SHE WHO KNOWS

WITH SCHOOL DAYS COME HARD DAYS FOR MOTHER! Just think of the innumerable blouses and frocks to keep clean! But, she who has an A. B. C. Electric Washer from WASHER WILSON'S of 140 South Brand boulevard, need have no worry, for she knows that her Electric Laundress will handle the clothes as gently as she herself! She knows how swiftly and thoroughly this wonderful machine with its double washing action removes the dirt from all soiled things! And, too, she knows that she really couldn't afford to be without her A. B. C. tor, the expense of keeping little tots school clothes clean via the laundry method would be practically prohibitive! Will you believe that she has paid for her Electric Washer just from the savings over her previous laundry bills? By making a small payment down, and small weekly payments, you, too, may have an A. B. C. in your home! Washer Wilson has them in both the small and large sizes, and with either the wooden or Armco Rust-proof Iron tub! The cabinet model is now selling for $155.00, and the semi-cabinet is only $135.00!—you can't afford to be without one, either!

Two rows of stitching around a button-hole will strengthen it and no longer will there be the annoyance of having the button-hole tear at the edges. This stitching also adds materially to the appearance of the button-hole.

MARTHA MALICIA

"YOU'LL SAY WITH ME!"

There is a void in the car-less family which may never be completely filled with other sources of enjoyment—no matter how numerous—for the joy of motoring is really incomparable. The Sheridan is the machine that has come to fill this family need—for the Sheridan is essentially a family car! Yes, indeed, modelled along gracefully beautiful lines and built for service and comfort, it is truly the "Car Complete." At the CLUB GARAGE, 107 East Colorado street, your may see the wonderful new Sheridan—and if you call Glendale 53, Mr. Murphy will be glad to call for you and give you a demonstration! Then you'll say with me that "the Sheridan is really the most comfortable, beautiful and the smoothest-running car I've ever ridden in!"

FOR THE FIRST TIME

THE AVERAGE LIFE of a pair of children's hose, however fine, during school time, is all too short! But SHERROD'S SPECIALTY SHOP, for women and children, at 207 East Broadway, are now able to offer for the first time since before the war, a really good pair of hose for only—25c! Yes, they come in all sizes for children and in black, brown and white! Just the thing for school wear too, for they are good-looking and yet durable and strong! You should lay in a good supply now—to last throughout the year, at this price.

A JOYOUS BEVERAGE

BOOTH'S SPECIAL BLEND COFFEE, will put pep, and the sheer joy of living, into you, when everything else has failed! I don't know of anything that is quite so invigorating and strengthening as a good hot cup of Booth's specially prepared coffee, when you're just "all in!" And, Mr. Booth's fame has spread afar, for many are the packages of this best coffee," that are shipped weekly to former Glendalians, who've moved away! But, you know "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," so you'd better make a little trip down to 318 East Broadway yourself, and buy some of this wonderful coffee—and if you're a lover of tea, too, I know that you'll simply revel in Mr. Booth's teas!

OF INESTIMABLE VALUE

YOU'LL FIND a Vacuum Bottle from NEALE & GREGG'S HARDWARE STORE, 107 North Brand boulevard, of inestimable value to you this winter! Oh, my, yes, for when the children start to school they come in so handy for lunches! Perhaps you'll not be at home to have their lunch ready—don't worry, for you can just heat some delicious soup, put it in the vacuum bottle, and by noon it will still be steaming! Or, during the warm weather, they're simply wonderful to carry iced tea or coffee. For long motor trips, Sunday outings in the country or at the beach, or for your husband's lunches, or any number of occasions, you'll find the vacuum bottle ever ready with just the right drink—and at the right temperature! Neale & Gregg have just received a special shipment of these vacuum bottles, in the pint size only, with a good-looking nickel-plated, corrugated case, which they have greatly reduced for Saturday. You know, the corrugated case is practically unbreakable! They sell regularly in this size for $2.50—yut for tomorrow they'll be only $1.19 at Neale & Gregg's.

WHY WATER METER INSTALLATION IS SO EXPENSIVE

When the newcomer to Glendale purchases a lot and decides upon the construction of a home, he naturally goes to the public service department of the city and makes application for the installation of a water and light meter. Right then and there he runs up against a proposition that, to him, seems puzzling. He learns that a charge of $22 is made by the city for a water meter, but for a gas meter no charge is made, both the meter and the installing being provided free of charge.

According to J. F. McIntyre, one of the officials in the public service department, the reason there is a charge made for the water meter is, principally, on account of the cost of installation. The cost of a water meter and the expense of installing same is about $30. The city stands $8 of this expense, while the property owner stands the additional cost.

The cost of the electric meter is not a great deal different from that of the water meter, but the expense of installing the former runs considerably less. It takes two men but a short time to place a light meter, while in placing a water meter all kinds of difficulties arise. The main must be exposed and tapped, the meter connected, the box set in place; the excavation must then be filled and tamped and the street department must take care of this part of the roadway for weeks. For this work, the street department charges the public service department a flat rate of $5 a meter.

MRS. HAZZARD HONORED

Mrs. Irene McReynolds of 336 North Kenwood street, entertained on Wednesday wth a five-course luncheon in honor of her house guest, Mrs. S. E. Hazzard, of San Diego. Yellow and lavender flowers, place cards and table decorations were used. Covers were laid for Mrs. Hazzard, Mrs. F. E. Coles, Mrs. Coles, Sr., Mrs. George Beardslee, Mrs. B. M. Pattison and Mrs. Ella J. Bolton, all of Los Angeles; Mrs. I. J. Johnson, of Phoenix, Ariz., a guest of Mrs. Coles; Mrs. R. E. Janes and Mrs. Edna J. Lucey, of Glendale. All the guests were old-time Arizona friends of Mrs. Hazzard and a real get-together visit was enjoyed.

MRS. STOCKER BACK FROM TRIP LAUDS GLENDALE

Mrs. Louise Stocker, one of the proprietors of the C. & S. Cafeteria, 111 North Brand, has returned from a nine weeks' vacation spent traveling in Missouri, Kansas, Utah, Nevada and the northern section of California and is a strong booster for Glendale.

According to Mrs. Stocker, who has only been in the west for the past two years, her trip to the east has satisfied her that there is no place that can compare with Glendale as a business town and an ideal place to live.

While in the east she visited at St. Joseph, Mo.; King City, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo. and Kansas City, Kan.; Denver, Colo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Reno, Nevada; Oakland and San Francisco, Calif., and in not one of these cities, says Mrs. Stocker, did she find such ideal conditions as prevail here.

Business in the east, says Mrs. Stocker, is absolutely dead, and there are thousands of men walking the streets looking for work. The men that are working are receiving low wages and living costs are exorbitant.

The climate, said Mrs. Stocker, was anything but ideal. Rain fell almost all of the time and the heat was intense. On clear days the weather would be intensely hot and on rainy days the air was oppressive.

In summing up the business situation in the east as compared to that in Glendale, Mrs. Stocker said "Glendale, as a business town has any city in the east beaten. Denver not excepted. Real estate in the east is a drug on the market while in Glendale property is booming. Even if business conditions were the same here as they are in the cities of the east and middle west the climate alone is such that to be able to live here and enjoy the sunshine and wonderful air is sufficient reason for me to say that I would far rather live in the poorest shack in Glendale than in the finest mansion of any city of the middle west or in the east."

WM. S. HART IS AT PALACE GRAND

William S. Hart achieved another triumph in his latest Paramount picture, "The Whistle," which was shown before a large and admiring audience at the Palace Grand Theatre yesterday.

It is a story of factory life in New England and Mr. Hart, instead of being a good-bad man of the desert, is a foreman. A tragedy enters his life and changes the current of his existence. Although he approaches the border line of criminality, the real man within him finally asserts his supremacy.

Myrtle Steadman is leading woman and acquits herself with rare artistry. The general cast is excellent.

The third episode of the spectacular animal drama received many a hearty response for the clever acting upon the part of those we consider dumb. "Miracles of the Jungle" is a series of the most thrilling and exciting animal pictures ever produced.

A pleasing specialty added to this big bill is the organ solo by Henri Monnet at the Wurlitzer, playing "Dear Little Boy of Mine." This not only fits the theme of the feature picture, but is a beautiful composition in itself. Music lovers will enjoy this alone.

A Paramount Magazine and a comedy complete this extraordinary bill.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY ENJOYS STAG DINNER

Twenty members of the Holy Name Society of the Holy Family Catholic Church gathered at the White Inn last night, the purpose of the meeting being to plan and arrange for the part the society will take in the fair that will be given in the new Catholic church on October 6, 7 and 8. Of this society, George McLaughlin is president and Frank Dunn is secretary.

At this fair the Holy Name Society will have full charge of the "country store." This will contain everything to be found in a full-grown, old-time, country grocery store.

At last night's meeting it was decided to purchase a Ford automobile and sell it at the fair. Every person attending the fair who contributes 50 cents or more to the building fund will be given a ticket. On the last night of the fair, at a time to be announced later, a ticket will be selected from those turned in and the holder of the duplicate will be given the Ford. Considerable interest is already manifest in this contest.

The next meeting of the society will be held the third Sunday in October, instead of the second Sunday, in order that it may not conflict with the fair.

BUSINESS IS GOOD SAYS DAVENPORT

"Business certainly is good," said Hal Davenport of the Davenport & Strother Real Estate company, this morning. "There hasn't been a time during the past few months when things looked as encouraging as they do right now. There is a large number of visitors in Glendale, who are either wanting to buy or rent, and the real rush of tourists to California has just started."

The following sales were reported by this realty firm today:

A six room bungalow and two lots at the southwest corner of Palmer avenue and Boynton street, for Mrs. J. B. Rand to Gus Hellman, a recent arrival from Oklahoma.

A lot at the corner of Magnolia and Walnut streets, in the Stepper tract to Frank Welch, of Los Angeles. Mr. Welch is building a beautiful double bungalow on this lot and expects to build soon on a lot he purchased through Davenport & Strother, on Mariposa street from Mrs. Eliza Birney.

A lot on Mariposa street for Mrs. Eliza Birney to Frank Crow, of Los Angeles, who will build soon.

A lot at the corner of Acacia and Florence place to Mr. Cole, of Los Angeles. Mr. Cole is building a very fine five room Colonial bungalow on this lot.

A lot at the corner of Cypress and Glendale avenue for Hal Davenport to Mr. Lingaman, who expects to build soon.

A lot in the Stepper tract for C. W. Ward to Mrs. Alma Bowman. Mrs. Bowman purchased this lot as an investment.

A lot in the Stepper tract for J. Burgess to Harold M. Corl of Los Angeles, who is now building a home to beat the high rent.

A lot on Mariposa street just north of Cypress to Abraham Weiser. Mr. Weiser recently sold his home on Fairview avenue, but his intention is to still remain in Glendale.

BUILDING TRADES STRIKE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Work on the new federal reserve bank building here was seriously handicapped today when the hoisting engineers, ornamental iron workers, steam fitters and plumbers employed there walked out because of dissatisfaction with the recent wage award by Judge K. M. Landis. Strikes of hoisting engineers employed on several other building jobs here were reported.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS LOGAN

Miss Mary Logan, who is to become the bride of Marshall Pearson in the near future, was the completely surprised honoree at a shower given by Miss Elaine Hudson at her home on North Jackson street, last evening.

Miss Logan had been the guest of her friend and chum, Miss Harriet Barnes, of North Brand boulevard, and was supposed to be on her way, with her hostess, to one of the local theaters, but was persuaded to go on an errand with Miss Barnes to the home of Miss Hudson, where she was welcomed by the other guests, who were awaiting her arrival.

A green and white color scheme had been carried out in the floral decorations, table appointments and refreshments, and after a fortune-telling game had been played, a little chair, wrapped in green and white crepe paper, was brought in and placed on the piano stool, and this the guest of honor was instructed to remove and open the receptable beneath, which she did, and found a beautiful array of miscellaneous gifts which will find a place in the home over which she will be presiding ere long.

A general social good time occupied the balance of the evening, which terminated after green and white ice cream with heart-shaped cakes to match, had been served, the cake which came to Mary containing the gold arrow which Cupid was supposed to have fired.

The young women who participated in the affair besides the hostess and Miss Logan, were: Misses Evelyn Williams, Edith Haggman, Helen Vredenburgh, Eva Green, Pearl Pollock and Harriet Barnes.

The wedding of Miss Logan and Mr. Pearson has been set for September 29.

Laces, in accord with the Spanish mode, are already having a vogue.

COLORADO MINERS' GRIEVANCE

WALSENBURG, Colo., Sept. 9.—The Colorado Industrial Commission opened hearings here today into the controversy between the United Mine Workers of America and the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., following a reduction of wages ranging as high at 87 per cent, made effective September 1. About 3000 of the 4000 men normally employed in the district, are idle. No serious disturbances have been reported.

LOCKLEAR'S WIDOW WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Ruby Groves Locklear will recover $4,900 compensation for the death of her husband, Omar L. Locklear, daredevil stunt aviator, who was killed while enacting an air thrill for a motion picture at Los Angeles. The State Industrial Accident Commission held that inasmuch as Locklear was being directed by flashes from the ground, he was an employe and not a contractor of the film company.

HOLD UP BANK

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 9.—Four armed masked bandits today held up the Beech Grove Bank at the edge of this city, escaping with loot estimated at $25,000. Three of the robbers were white men, the fourth a negro. They escaped in an automobile.

Do You Know?

I AM IN GLENDALE for Glendale and the people of Glendale! It is my desire to offer them the finest quality goods at less than city prices! Due to my twenty years experience in both wholesale and retail grocery lines in New York and New Jersey, and having run as many as five stores at one time, I am thoroughly familar with the market—and know how to buy at the closest prices!

I believe that Glendale is a growing community, a city that is not "coming," but has "arrived"! I have become a member of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, bought a home in "The City of Homes," and have come with my family to reside here!

THE GROCERY BUSINESS and MEAT MARKET at 244 North Brand Boulevard, formerly known as Bush & Son, will henceforth be known as NUSSBAUM'S, as I have purchased it with a view of maintaining a high standard—selling the very BEST goods I can buy at the LOWEST possible prices! The store has been remodeled and we are now ready for business —offering you COURTEOUS SERVICE and REASONABLE PRICES!

We have a free delivery twice daily—just call Glendale 91, or won't you come in and get acquainted with us, and see for yourself just what we're doing?

THE POSTOFFICE FOR GLENDALE

The Glendale Press is in receipt of a letter from the office of the first assistant postmaster general in regard to an independent postoffice for Glendale.

The letter advises that the matter of establishing Glendale as an independent postoffice is being "carefully investigated." This might be glad news, but we are of the opinion that the investigations will extend over an interminable length of time.

Why investigate?.

Is it not an established fact that Glendale's population and postoffice receipts justify an independent postoffice?

We are hoping that in the near future Glendale will be better represented at Washington—represented in a way that will give her what her size and importance justifies.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

We are now at the beginning of the recuperation period of the economic cycle, according to all indications. Production is very low and, from the beginning of the year up to August 22, the Federal Reserve Board states we imported the huge sum of $464,000,000 in gold. Silver imports have, likewise, been large.

Now, the average man will ask, "What good does all this do me?" None at this time, but in gold we have the basis of credit and before long business men will borrow money from the banks for various purposes, and then we should have a return of prosperity.

Already there are definite indications of a return of prosperity. American woolen mills are reported to be operating at capacity; the steel industry is "looking up;" the price of cotton and wheat is advancing, and money ratee are at a low level.

We Americans are not a sea-going people like the British. Not a bit of a bit. But we have seaboards, East and West, over 4000 miles of them, and, judging by the way liberty is being courted beyond the three-mile limit, we shall soon have a live, sea-going population all along our rock-and-rye bound coast.

COUNCIL DECIDES TO INSPECT FOLSOM SEWER

Entire Body Will Take Trip to Study the Plan of Disposal in Prison City in Connection With Proposed New Plant Under Consideration for Glendale

With Councilman Lapham away on his vacation, several matters of importance that were to have been taken up by the city council last night were held over until next week.

The first item to be acted on last night was the hearing of protests regarding the improvement of Maple street between Central avenue and Columbus avenue. No protests were offered.

On invitation extended the council by a representative of the firm, it was decided that Mayor Robinson and the city council should visit and inspect the plant of the California Glazed Cement Pipe Company today, preparatory to awarding the contract for sewer work on Canada boulevard.

Kent Has Bill

Roy L. Kent presented a bill to the city for $176, the amount that he claims is due him for construction work on a house that had to be abandoned because of the opening of Orange street. The council voted to refer the matter to the city manager.

O. L. Travers requested the city council to deed him a 25-foot strip of land on Orange, for a reasonable remuneration, in order to make the lot now held by him a corner lot. The legality of the act as requested by Mr. Travers was discussed and it was decided to hold the matter over for further investigation and until the return of Councilman Lapham from his vacation.

The request of J. A. Tone for permission to erect and operate an iron and woodwork factory in block S of Colorado street was granted.

J. E. Peters notified the council that the rent for the rooms occupied by the health department would be raised from $25 per month to $50. This matter was referred to the committee of the whole.

Asks License be Revoked

Mrs. Harry S. Robinson communicated with the council and asked that the license of J. W. Whitaker or the Pacific Plumbing Company, be revoked. She stated in her communication that the reasons for asking that the license of Mr. Whitaker be revoked were that when he installed the plumbing in her residence he had not followed the plans and specifications as per contract, and had increased the cost of the work over the price bid. In addition to this she alleged that the job when completed was faulty and considerable difficulty was experienced in having it passed by the inspector. The complaint stated that other residents of Glendale were complaining about the work turned out by the Pacific Plumbing Company.

City Manager Reeves told the council that he had received several complaints regarding the work of this company and had summoned Mr. Whitaker to a conference to show cause why his license should not be revoked. Mr. Whitaker did not attend this conference. Mr. Reeves said that he had heard that the reason for Mr. Whitaker's failure to attend the conference was that he is at present being held by the county sheriff. The license of J. B. Whitaker and the Pacific Plumbing Company was revoked.

Community Conference

A letter from the president of Stanford University and mayor of Palo Alto, inviting the city council to attend a conference on community problems at the university, September 11 to 23, was read and ordered filed.

Acting on the invitation of the California Association of Dairy and Milk Inspectors for the city milk inspector to attend a meeting of milk inspectors to be held at Santa Monica during the meeting of the League of Municipalities, City Milk Inspector Hollenbeck was instructed to be present at the meeting September 28.

A communication from the railroad commission notifying the city council that the application of the Midway Gas Company, to increase their rates had been dismissed, was read and ordered filed.

Permit Filling Station

The application of John V. Zimmerman to install and maintain a gasoline filling station at 900 South San Fernando road was read and the council gave permission to erect and maintain the station.

Chief of Police Lampert communicated with the council commending Motorcycle Officers Collins and Trautwein for the capture of Manuel McKnight, confessed bank robber who attempted to pass bogus checks in this city. In his communication the chief of police recommended that Officer Collins be granted $10 increase in salary and a 10-day leavqe of absence. The 10-day vacation was granted and the salary increase was referred to the committee of the whole.

Isles of Safety

A report by the city engineer regarding the cost of erecting two platforms at Brand boulevard and Broadway to safeguard passengers waiting for P. E. cars was read and referred to the city manager. It was estimated, in the report, that the cost of erecting each platform would be $125.

Superintendent White of the Glendale City Schools asked that a date for a conference between the city council and the school board for discussing of additional street work in front of school properties be set. It was decided that the meeting be held September 20, at 7:30 p. m.

The matter of establishing the grade of Hillcrest avenue, Virginia avenue and Sunset road in tract 3649, was brought to the attention of the council in a communication from Huntley & Evans, and the matter was referred to the city engineer with instructions to establish the grade.

Peter S. Tomich was declared low bidder for the contract of installing sewers on Canada boulevard and all other bids were refused pending the awarding of the contract.

Change Street Names

An ordinance changing the names of certain portions of Sycamore Canyon boulevard to their original names, Cypress avenue and Palmer avenue, was presented by the city attorney.

An amendment to sections 3 and 5, Ordinance No. 433, regulating the keeping of dog kennels in the city was offered.

An ordinance setting aside a portion of land to be used as a public street to be known as Raleigh street, was offered to the city council.

An amendment to section 30, Ordinance No. 274, providing license fees for cars operated and businesses conducted in the city was offered.

An ordinance amending sections of the ordinance for awarding contracts for street work by pivate contract was offered.

Section 8, Ordinance No. 390, regulating planting of trees and shrubbery in public places, will be amended by an ordinance offered last night.

An ordinance to regulate the installing of gasoline curb pumps, filling tanks and buggies was offered.

Map 432 showing the assessment district for the opening of Chestnut street, was adopted.

An ordinance providing for exercise by council of powers heretofore conferred upon the board of trustees, was adopted.

Other Ordinances

Other ordinances adopted last night were: Ordinance approving the annexation to the city of Glendale the Sierra avenue district; ordinance extending the time for filing an action to condemn the land necessary for the opening and laying out of a portion of Garfield avenue; ordinance establishing the grade on a portion of Maryland avenue; resolution adopting specifications for the construction of oil macadam pavements in the city.

Decide on Visit

It was decided that the entire city council and the city manager visit Folsom prison and inspect the sewerage disposal system at that institution as it is contemplated installing a similar system in the Verdugo canyon for the city of Glendale. The city will pay all expenses of the trip.

A resolution of intention and maps required for the improvement of Milford street were adopted.

Garage Bond Issue

Action was taken last night by the city council for the preliminary work necessary to calling a bond election in the city of Glendale to provide funds for the revolving fund and to erect the first unit of the proposed municipal garage.

Little actual work toward the calling of the election could be accomplished at the meeting last night as the exact amount needed for the revolving fund was not known.

It was decided to refer the entire matter to the city manager to ascertain the amount that would be needed for the fund, and report his findings to the council at the next regular meeting Thursday night.

NIGHT SCHOOLS VOTED BY HIGH SCHOOL BOARD

Interchange of Pupils With Other Institutions is Approved by Board—Enrollment for Sessions Set for September 15 and 16—Mechanical Arts Scheduled

At a special meeting of high school trunstees held yesterday afternoon, it was voted to establish night schools which would allow two sessions a week on each subject, the subjects taught to be dependent upon the demand, as shown by the registration.

This will make it possible for students in Eagle Rock and Glendale, who have been attending night school in Los Angeles, to get this service at home in their own school.

Night school students are to enroll Thursday and Friday evenings, September 15 and 16, and night school classes will be organized Monday evening, September 19.

It is expected that classes will be called for in woodworking, auto shop work, mechanical drawing, commercial art, and physical training for business men. It is also probable that classes in millinery and sewing will be organized, to meet late in the afternoon or in the evening.

La Canada Students

The other important matter decided by the board was the interchange of students. Students in La Canada who have been coming to Glendale High, desire to continue their courses here in spite of the fact that La Canada has been annexed to the Pasadena school district. On the other hand, some students in Glendale desire to take work in Los Angeles high schools. An arrangement has been made by which these interchanges can be made by Glendale giving credit for attendance to the outside schools and they in turn giving Glendale High a like credit for students from here.

May Purchase Piano

The purchase of a piano of superior quality to replace the one in the music department at present, was favorably discussed, but action was postponed until the regular monthly meeting of the board next Tuesday evening. In reporting this discussion, Principal Moyse said that it was the opnion of the board that the purchase of such an instrument would serve not only the school, but the various musical organizations that meet in the music department, and would thus serve the whole community.

The question of additions to the teaching staff was brought up, but action was postponed until school opens and the registration is complete. When the working program is made out the needs of the school can be determined.

PRE-WAR PRICES ON COTTON GOODS AT BIG SALE

McGee's Dry Goods Store Opens Drive in Yard Goods Next Week

An unprecedented sale of cotton yard goods will be held at the McGee Dry Goods Store, 614 East Broadway, throughout the entire next week. R. M. McGee, proprietor of the establishment, says he will offer some of the most surprising bargains in cotton yard goods that Glendale has ever known. In fact, these goods will be sold at prices that existed before the war. An elaborate assortment of the goods will be on display and the people of Glendale are invited to "call in and see for themselves."

Like practically all of the other Glendale merchants he says that while business here has not been slack for years, t is now getting even better.

SONS OF CALIFORNIA CELEBRATE 71ST ADMISSION DAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—California's 71st birthday as a state was fittingly celebrated today in San Francisco. A regatta and swimming races were the first big event of the holiday. In the afternoon a mass meeting at the civic auditorium vied with a rodeo under the auspices of the Native Sons of the Golden West as attractions.

The birthday festivities were to be crowned by a monster ball at the civic auditorium tonight.

All local parlors of native sons and daughters kept "open house" today while thousands availed themselves of the holiday to go hiking.

Seventy-one years ago today California, the wonder state of the Union, was admitted as a state. This was achieved after Commodore John D. Sloat, commander of a squadron of the United States navy steamed into Monterey harbor and ended Mexico's rule over California.

Since admission to the Union, California has written some of the most amazing and glowing pages in the history of the United States.

When California was admitted to the Union the population of the entire state was 92,579. Five years previous to that time the white population of the state did not exceed 5,000. During the first ten years of California's existence as a state the population grew to 379,994. The rapid growth of the state in those days was due, largely, to the numerous gold discoveries.

Since that time the tide of people who come to see California and remain to worship has increased to such an extent that the state has become famous all over the world for its wonderful growth.

SCHOOL SITES WILL BE SOLD TO FUND IMPROVEMENTS

The Glendale Board of Education last night adopted a resolution of intention to sell portions of school sites needed for street improvement near Acacia avenue, Cerritos avenue and the Maple street grounds.

The request for a kindergarten at Acacia avenue was denied.

It voted to confer with the city council, September 20, on improvement of streets adjacent to school grounds.

Mrs. A. A. Barton was made spokesman for the board at a general teachers' meeting called for Saturday morning.

Superintendent White was given emergency authority to appoint additional teachers if Monday's registration makes it necessary.

The official call for the bond election of $260,000 was postponed because County Superintendent Keppel has not yet prepared the papers.

Superintendent White was authorized to increase the joint salary of Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher, who have been conducting the school cafeteria from $125 to $150 per month.

FIRST NATIONAL OPENS NEW DEPOSIT VAULTS

In order to accommodate its ever increasing business, the First National Bank is today moving its safe deposit box and escrow departments from its present location, corner of Broadway and Brand, to the new banking room which it has recently equipped, at 104 East Broadway, two doors east of its present quarters, where these two departments will be ready for business tomorrow morning.

New Vault

A new safe deposit vault has been constructed with steel reinforcement consisting of one-inch steel rods set six inches apart, up and down, and one-half-inch steel rods, six inches apart, horizontally. The top and bottom of the vault are of 18-inch concrete construction with a similar reinforcement. The door is a six-inch steel door, equipped with triple time lock, and weighs 11 tons. The vault is also equipped with an electrically-operated burglar alarm system.

The vault alone was constructed at a cost of about $8500, while about $10,000 was added in equipment, making a total cost of $18,500.

Additional Space

The additional space which these new quarters will provide, both in the vault and in the lobby, will enable the bank to care most efficiently for its safe deposit and escrow business. The completion of these improvements gives this institution one of the most modernly equipped safe deposit departments in Southern California and it is a credit to the progressive spirit of Glendale and of the First National Bank.

Officers of the bank announce that after Saturday the new vault will be open for inspection and that they will be glad to show the public about their new quarters.

A brown rust is on the collar list for fall chapeaux, and some of the fuschia tones are shown, but more in the purple shades than the wistaria or cerise.

The World Today

By H. NELSON,
Manager, Glendale Avenue Branch, Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank

HERMAN NELSON

Banks, public offices and many mercantile establishments thruout the State are closed today in celebration of Admission Day, a legal holiday in the State of California.

This State has the unique record of taking her place among the other States of the Union without first being a territory of the United States. It was the thirty-first State to enter the Union, which entrance was accomplished on September 9, 1850, after several unsuccessful attempts at statehood.

The American conquest of California was accomplished with very little bloodshed. The fact that Mexico would lose it ultimately was apparent for some time previous to its actual declaration of independence. The only question to be settled was what country should attain possession of it, which question was settled by the party of Americans under the leadership of such men as Capt. John C. Fremont, Capt. Ezekiel Merritt and Commodore Sloat. The conquest of California was finally completed by Commodore Stockton, Colonel Fremont and General Kearny, and on August 15, 1846, California was declared a territory of the United States, but no territorial government was subsequently granted.

The discovery of gold by Marshall at Sutter's Mill in 1848 gave an impetus to the influx from all parts of the world. The great body of these gold seekers arrived in 1849.

In connection with the celebration of Admission Day, the early history of California is of interest. Perhaps the first white man to set foot upon the soil of California was Cabrillo, who is credited with having discovered it in the year 1542. Later, a number of Spaniards and several English privateers conducted explorations along the coast, and some little distance into the interior. Most of these explorations were undertaken to find the wonderful treasures which California was said to contain, legends of which were passed from one tribe of Indians to another.

The first attempts at colonization and civilizing the Indians, who were native here, was made by the Franciscan fathers. This work was undertaken by Don Jose Galvez, the Visitador General of Mexico, and Fra Junipero Serra. Galvez fitted the expedition to enter California and take possession, leaving the religious conquest to Fra Serra. This conquest was accomplished in a remarkable manner, as history shows, and was attended by the establishment of 21 missions at various points in California. It was during this period of mission building that the famous El Camino Real or "The King's Highway," between missions, was created.

California at that time, of course, was under Spanish rule. The capital was located at Monterey, which was discovered and named by Vizcaino in 1602, lost for more than 160 years and then found again in 1770, when the Mission of San Carlos was established.

When Spain lost Mexico she also lost California. The fall of the old regime and the rise of Mexican rule saw California a very prosperous territory. The chief industry was cattle raising. Commerce in hides and tallow and such allied commodities was carried on with the few traders who came to her shores. There was little money in circulation and very little need for it. The Mexican governors cut up large portions of the territory into magnificent land grants which were made to various people of military or political importance who stood well with the governor then in power. Under Mexican rule and the political conditions which came into existence, the prosperous era of California rapidly declined, leaving it divided politically and shaken with revolt, which finally resulted on June 14, 1846, in the hoisting of the Bear flag and the establishment of the Republic of California. This republic existed 26 days, when the Bear flag was lowered and the Stars and Stripes of the United States run up in its place. This marked the end of Latin rule in California.

GLENDALE COMPANY DRILLS ON STREET

On account of the big tent occupying the high school campus the regular drill of Company M, National Guard of Glendale, was held on the street. There was a good attendance and the drill was conducted by Captain Watson. Major Robert C. Cotton was present and expressed himself as delighted with the work of the Glendale boys. The members of this company are expecting in about two weeks to give a social, to which the general public will be invited.

The Fifth Separate Company of Glendale, which was organized as a rifle company, has been changed to a machine gun company. This changes the equipment necessary for the company as all the officers and men are armed with automatic revolvers and are mounted. This equipment will consist of eight machine guns, eight machine gun carts, eight ammunition carts, 16 mules for drawing these cars, one riding mule for the supply sergeant and six horses for the officers.

Considerable material for the Glendale branch of the National Guard arrived this morning. This consists of 15 crates of target frames, three crates of braces for the target frames, one box of target cloth and one box of pasters and target spotters.

The Glendale boys will hold a shoot at the rifle range in the Sycamore canyon on Saturday of next week.

ODD FELLOWS PUT ON SECOND DEGREE

The Odd Fellows' lodge of Glendale put on the second degree to a number of candidates in their lodge rooms on East Broadway last night. There was a good attendance and the evening proved profitable to all. The local degree team put on the work last night. Next Thursday the third degree will be put on by the Glendale Odd Fellows, and the members of the local lodge are planning to give a social and program in about two weeks, this to be open to the public.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat, Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water dring which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE UNDER EXECUTION

Sheriff's Sale No. B-94772

Fred D. Wright, Plaintiff, vs. Anna A. Scott, Defendant.

MUSICALE AT HOLLYWOOD

Mesdames Betty D. Webster, 318 West Harvard, and Grace A. Webster, 646 North Orange, gave a musicale at the Hollywood studio of Mrs. Cora M. Bowler Thursday evening, September 8. Mrs. Webster, who is a successful piano teacher of this city, is a very talented and brilliant pianist. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Grace A. Webster, who sang a group of Cadman's Indian songs in a charming, interpretative manner.

GRAND VIEW WATER SYSTEM PURCHASE IS APPROVED

The matter of purchasing the water distributing system in the Grand View district which is at present operated by E. H. Learned, was taken up last night by the City Council, and it was decided that the City should purchase the system for a total of $1,639.94, paying in actual cash the sum of $516.73, to be paid out of the public service budget fund.

Mr. Learned at present owes the City of Glendale, for water furnished, $685.52; for installation of meters and service by the City, $433.69, making a total of $1,123.21 that is due the City from Mr. Learned. Purchase of the system by the City of Glendale will balance the bill that the city now holds against Mr. Learned and secure the distributing system for $516.73.

POWDER AND ROUGE HELP BUSINESS GIRL

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9.—Powder and rouge tempered with moderation and good judgement are a decided asset to the business girl. So says Mrs. G. E. Conger, home secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, who mothers the more than one hundred business girls living at the "Y."

"A shiny nose is not the symbol of efficiency any more than is the complexion which resembles French pastry. It's the girl who is quietly attractive, who blends inconspicuously into her surroundings, that is most appreciated by business men," declares Mrs. Conger.

Mrs. Conger is not "with the mob who are howling for dress reform. Again stressing moderation, she defends the short skirts of the mode, saying:

"The present fashions are quite the ideal attire for business girls. They permit more freedom and are good looking. I for one distinctly hope long skirts will not be favored."

While she does not condemn it, Mrs. Conger thinks most employers prefer the old-fashioned coiffures to bobbed hair. Therefore to the maid who thinks of having her tresses shorn she says "Beware!"

HERE IN GLENGALE

The following moves made in Glendale since noon yesterday were recorded by the public service department as follows:

George Meyers from 730 Raleigh; W. A. Sayler, 705 North Louise to 335 Patterson; W. C. Wright, 743 East Wilson to 526 West Lexington; L. Dehetree, 536 North Maryland to Los Angeles; S. L. Smith, 134 Olive to 518 East Palmer; J. L. Circle, 410 West Park to 449 West California; Mr. Kelsey from 430 Burchett; H. J. Schrapp from 745 East Wilson; J. C. Middlekoff, 454 Fernando court to 1118 South San Fernando road; Mary E. Memford to Rudy building; L. E. Payne to 1439 East California; B. F. Parks to 369 West California; Mrs. William Justema to 1237 Viola; A. M. Johnson to 503 Vine; Fred Antrim to 730 Raleigh; S. Bickel to 134 Olive; Light meters were installed for the following:

P. F. Wilcoxon, 464 West Windsor; K. A. Wilber, 511 East Palmer; Robert J. Vaughn, 530 North Glendale avenue; E. Romelli, 621 West Elk; H. W. Walker, 623 North Central, and John Coleman, 723 East Lomita, in the rear.

STUDIO DANCE SCHEDULED

What promised to be a very interesting and unusual program is to be given tomorrow evening at the studio of Mrs. Evelyn M. S. Labadie, 101 North Cedar, by Miss Vivian Aston in charge of the vocal department and Miss Dorothy Wright of the department of oriental and classic dancing. These two young women will give a recital in costume and also a play, to which the public is invited. These young ladies are acknowledged to be the best in their respective lines and the affair promised to be a most interesting one. Because of the limited capacity of the studio, Mrs. Labadie has asked that those who expect to attend the recital, phone her at Glendale 898-W, so that reservations may be made for them.

ST. MARK'S GUILD BEGINS FALL WORK

The Women's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal Church opened their fall meetings yesterday with an elaborate luncheon in the guild hall of the church.

Mrs. B. O. Holbrook and Mrs. Frank England were in charge of the luncheon. Tables were set in the form of a horseshoe and the guests, 28 in number, partook of a delicious four course luncheon.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery addressed the ladies, asking their cooperation for the women's department of the San Fernando fair. Many beautiful articles, made by the ladies of the Guild, were on display during the afternoon, and a number of them were sold, thereby adding to the Guild fund. After the luncheon, a business meeting was held and plans for the coming year discussed. The officers of the Guild are: Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, president; Mrs. Charlotte Baker, vice-president, and Mrs. R. E. Downing, secretary.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Two automobile accidents were reported to the police department for the past 24 hours. E. D. Kerr, 256 East Villia, Pasadena, was traveling west toward Pasadena, between Sunland and Tujunga at 1:40 a. m., and as he attempted to pass a truck and trailer that was east bound, Mr. Kerr alleges, the trailer swung out into the road and struck the car driven by him, turning it completely over, smashing the front and top of the car.

According to Mr. Kerr's report he was driving with only one light and the truck was using two coal oil lights.

The second accident was reported by Charles A. Gould, 715 South Hope street, Los Angeles, who charges that as he was driving east on East Broadway his car was struck by a machine driven by Cecil V. Gray, Verdugo road, who attempted to negotiate a left hand turn at the street intersection.

BRIDE FOUND MURDERED

RUNNEMEDE HIGHLAND, N. J., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Isabella Dobson, a bride of two months, was found murdered today in her home here.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Here is the average daily schedule of the American visitor who comes over to see what the "Old Country" is like, according to the Daily Express:

Eight a. m., breakfast: 8:22, taxicab for Westminister; 8:30-9, "do" the Abbey; 9 to 9.6, Houses of Parliament and Big Ben; 9.69:21, taxicab to St. Paul's; 9:21-9:44, "do" St. Paul's; 9:44 12, tour of the galleries—Tate, National and Wallace galleries; 12:15-12:30, "Old Curiosity Shop;" 12:30-1:30, lunch at the Cheshire Cheese; 1:30-3, shopping—Regent and Bond streets; 3-3:1, rest; 3:1-6, see the rest of London; 6-8:30, dinner with wine; 8:30-11, theatre; 11, supper, night club dancing and "so to bed" at—?

Thus ends another "durn dull day" for the American tourist, who, on his return home, will ever after be an exalted person because he has "seen London" and "knows England."

The schedule is not a burlesque one in the opinion of a number of travel bureau officials, whose nerve-racking task it is to act as ciceroni to the great number of visitors from the United States at present in London.

"It is a fact," said an American Express Company official to a Daily Express representative, "that American tourists come here after loafing from six weeks to three months on the Continent with the determination to 'do' England in a week and London in a day. The main reason for their rush is the cost of hotel rooms, which is higher here than in New York."

The same official calculates that the average American tourist spends $60 a day, apart from his hotel accommodations.

The American Express Company estimates that there are at present about 10,000 Americans in London, most of them spending only a day or so here en route to the steamers which will take them home.

FRANCE BULWARK OF EUROPE

Country Stands Alone Against a Still Menacing Germany, According to Writer in Outlook.

I wish I could write cheerfully of Europe. I have spent nearly three months digging under the surface 16 hours a day in England, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Austria and Hungary, uncovering the cost of living, wages, taxes, governmental expenditures, incomes, debts and gold reserves; and I have noted the agricultural equipment and activity, the political sanity and otherwise, the honesty of peoples and their intelligence. And I am coming home to America with a heavy heart.

I criticize every country in Europe, as I do my own beloved land. I excuse only France, W. C. Gregg writes in the Outlook.

From the first gun in 1914 to the present moment France has been the object of attack by the central powers. Anti-French intrigue is as active today as ever. Each move, each hope of the central powers hangs on crippling France. France bears the brunt of guaranteeing European order, and is recompensed by a world of suspicion or hatred. She does not deserve criticism from her former associates; she does need their advice and their firm support in her plan to settle the war.

What would happen if France were to economize by disbanding the bulk of her army? Germany would change her tone immediately. Not one mark more would she pay and her own army would rapidly take form. In one year she would again be the principal military power of Europe, with greater resources than any two other nations. There would then be no doubt as to who won the war.

Plant "Dog in the Manger."

Quite a number of plants seem to have developed something very like a consciousness, enabling them to divine the best way of circumventing the encroachments of their neighbors.

A remarkable instance of this is seen in connection with the common bramble, when, as is often the case, it is found straggling over a pile of stones or up against a roughly-built wall. In such circumstances the plant has the power to turn its growing roots into clubbed roots, which completely fill the crevices where soil is to be found, and effectively keep competitors out.

Lucky Kid.

Bud was brought to the barbers every week to have his bobbed hair trimmed. This always was a terrible ordeal for him. One day he was called into his mother's room to see the new baby. After making a mental note of the fact that its head was bald, he said enviously: "Gee, my baby sister won't have to go to a barber."

JAP CROWN PRINCE TO BE WELCOMED ON HIS RETURN

By DUKE N. PARRY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKIO, Sept. 9.—Tokio's municipal officials are busily engaged in preparing a welcome for the Crown Prince of Japan, who will return from his European tour this month and Tokio will give itself over to a great welcome of the first returning imperial son.

Tokio and the Empire are preparing for a shock when His Highness returns. Pictures have reached the Japanese capital showing Hirohito on foot, walking apparently the same ground that democratic Europeans walk, conversing with officers and others, some of whom hold no high court ranks, and in many other ways making himself at home in the ways of democracy. He has been interviewed by newspaper men, has appeared to enjoy the freedom which has been denied him in his native land. It is but natural, the officials of Tokio and of the Imperial Household Department argue, that the future Emperior will not care to abandon all of these newly acquired bits of personal freedom when he returns home.

Festival is Prepared

Tokio is expected to see one of the most elaborate festivals that the city has ever known when the Imperial party returns. The Aldermen's Assembly recently voted Y100,000 ($50,000) for the city-wide celebration. Fireworks, special military maneuvers, lantern processions and a grand public welcome in Hibiya Park are the things now being contemplated by those immediately in charge of the plans.

The largest set pieces of fireworks ever built in Japan will be shot up at several places in Tokio when the imperial train arrives at Shinagawa, just outside of the city. This will be a signal to the citizens of the old capital, which just one-half year ago was praying that the gods would intervene and keep the heir-apparent away from the foreign shores of strange peoples.

It has been proposed that a ceremony be held at Hibiya Park, under the direction of Mayor Baron Goto, which may be attended by the Crown Prince and the Government officers. If this step is taken by the Crown Prince it will be the first public demonstration of a new idea in democracy on the part of a future Emperior.

Worth One's Salt.

The phrase "not worth his salt," dates back to the time when salt was regularly doled out to the soldier as part of his pay, and one's rank was designated by his place at the table in reference to the position of the salt—members of the family and honored guests being placed above the salt, while retainers and servants sat below it. The Arab considers as sacred the guest who has partaken of his salt, a custom that might well be adopted elsewhere. In Africa a handful of salt will purchase a bride, and while we have all heard of those rare mortals who are worth their weight in gold, or whose price is above rubies, apparently no one in that section has achieved the distinction of being worth his weight in salt. What a find Lot's wife would have been to an African tribal king!

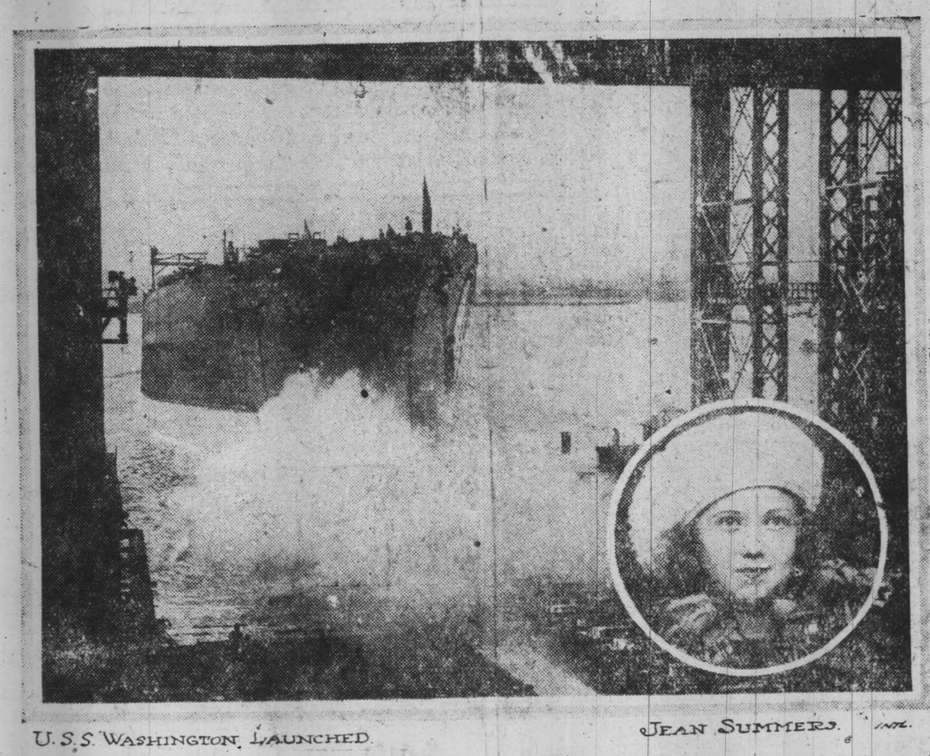
Hints From Gladstone.

Gladstone was once asked to give some suggestions for platform aspirants and it is said that it was attention to these rules which in no small degree accounted for Gladstone's own power in "swaying audiences": 1. Study plainness of language, always preferring the simpler word. 2. Shortness of sentences. 3. Distinctness of articulation. 4. Test and question your own arguments beforehand, not waiting for critics or opponent. 5. Seek a thorough digestion of and familiarity with your subject, and rely mainly on these to prompt the proper words. 6. Remember that if you are to sway an audience, you must, besides thinking out your matter, watch it all along.

Northern Lights.

The name "Aurora Borealis" was first used by Cassendi, who, in 1621, observed one in France and wrote a description of it. The "aurora" is periodic in its manifestations, the finest display being at intervals of 60 years, and less marked ones at intervals of ten or eleven years. It is asserted that the greater and lesser displays correspond with the increase and decrease of spots on the sun. This phenomenon is generally manifested in the following way: A dim light appears on the horizon shortly after twilight and gradually assumes the shape of an arch having a pale yellow color, with its concave side turned earthward. From this arch streams of light shoot forth, passing from yellow to green and then to brilliant violet.

Latest Addition to Uncle Sam's Navy



U. S. S. WASHINGTON, LAUNCHED. JEAN SUMMERS. INT.

Until a decision is reached by the disarmament conference, Uncle Sam is remembering and acting upon a little lesson in preparedness learned at the outset of the recent war. The U. S. S. Washington, sponsored by ten-year-old Miss Jean Summers, daughter of a congressman from the state for which the ship is named, is only one of the four of her type now building. The Washington will mount 16-inch rifles and will be the last word in superdreadnaught construction. She didn't lack kick, even at her launching. From the hands of little Jean, Summers a bottle of honest-to-goodness champagne fell against the prow of the ship.

AIRPLANE FIREWORKS AT THE VALLEY FAIR

Each evening of the San Fernando Valley Fair, from September 19th to 24th, the sky will be lit with a trail of fire.

The City Fathers of San Fernando at their meeting last week voted to furnish one of the spectacular features for the Fair, in the shape of an airplane that would make two thirty minute flights daily.

Mr. Samuel Long of the Long Aviation field and his pilot Capt. Otto Enderton, late of the U. S. Army, have been engaged to make the flights.

The afternoon flight will be divided into 15 minutes of wing walking and acrobatic stunts by Mr. Long, and 15 minutes of fancy flying.

For the evening flight, Mr. Long will equip his machine with apparatus for the discharge of a fireworks display and he will circle above the Fair grounds and in plain view of the thousands attending the Society $1,000 a night Horse Show, he will light the sky with a wonderful variety of fireworks.

Gift Horses Arrive

"Owywa" a standard bred McKinney Mare, "Highland Dreamgold," a 5-gaited saddle stallion and the pure bred Shetland pony that is to be given away free at the Children's Matinee, have arrived from the White Triangle ranch near San Luis Obispo, California.

Famous Horses at Fair

Assurances have been received from Col. McClune and Col. Shelley, of the Government Remount Station at Sacramento, that he will bring a carload of famous Army horses to the $1000 a night Horse Show.

With them will come Col. Joyce with his celebrated horse "Bug," Col. Agnew with "Monterey," and Lieut. Burgess with "Pretty Boy."

An entry has also been received from Mrs. W. Kelsey Anderson, who will bring her Canadian Hackneys, and also her five famous riding horses.

W. S. Travis Jr., a guest of Judge Geo. Gordon Moore of New York has wired Hamilton Horse Bassett, that he will endeavor to arrive on the Coast in time to show five Polo ponies and some stock horses.

Mrs. Charlotte Anderson, from Charmeren Stock Farms, at Pleasanton, will show her imported five gaited stallion "The Nobleman," who is by Bourbon King out of Jane Madison, who is by Rex Pevine. These are a few of the 200 famous horses that will be seen at the Society Night Horse Shows, to be held in the arena at San Fernando, September 19th to 24th, inc.

New Buildings

A wonderful new Fair Grounds, with new buildings, new stock sheds, new individual box stalls for the horses—everything clean and sanitary, and with a new mammoth arena, especially constructed at an expense of $10,000, will open its gates to the public, September 19th to 24th, at San Fernando, California. These new grounds will be the scene of the First Los Angeles County Fair held in 20 years, and it will be a new fashioned regular "Old County Fair."

Construction work is completed on the arena that will house the $1,00 a Night Society Horse Show. During the six days of the Fair, the huge arena will be the scene of the stock parades and the adult and junior judging contests. When the decorations and lighting effects are added, the arena will afford a gorgeous setting for the day and night attractions.

The Los Angeles County Fair has absorbed the Los Angeles County Livestock Show and the Los Angeles Poultry Show and it has taken foremost place in the annual circuit of Fairs held in Southern California.

One of the new fashioned features of the Fair—the Tractor Demonstration and Power Farm Exhibition—will include the demonstration of at least four new models of tractors that have never before been seen on any demonstration field, each of which will be placed on the market this fall. They are the Model "F" Cletrac, the 4 drive Wizard, the Tioga and the Gladiator.

Equally interesting to many persons will be the Mule-drawn Plow Demonstration, that will be put on by the Southern California Horse and Mule Association. This association has agreed to furnish an 8-mule team to demonstrate what has been accomplished in the breeding of high grade mules, and also the effectiveness in agricultural work.

While the $1,000 a Night Horse Show and the Southern California Livestock Show will be the two premier events of the big County Fair, the Power Farming, Machinery Department, the Tractor Demonstration, the National Poultry Show for California, for 1921, and the Agricultural and Industrial Departments are all organized on a tremendous basis and will be credit to the county.

It Is Hard to Be Accurate.

Can you exactly describe what you see? If you can, you are cleverer than most persons. A book recently published in Paris relates that at a meeting of scientific men two of them suddenly began to quarrel. Under pretense of obtaining legal evidence the president of the meeting asked everyone present to write an exact report of what had happened. The quarrel was a pure piece of acting arranged to test the powers of observation of the men present.

Though the assembly was composed entirely of jurists, psychologists and doctors, only one report contained less than 20 per cent of error; 13 reports had more than 50 per cent wrong; and in 34 reports from 10 to 15 per cent of the details were wholly imaginary. When men of science can so err we can understand how easily the ordinary man can go astray. The story shows why lawyers value circumstantial evidence so highly.—Youth's Companion.

DELAYED BIG SHIP'S SAILING

Liner Aquitania Stayed at Her Dock Until Lost Youngster Had Been Discovered.

Her whistle had groaned several warnings and the mess call gong had been sounded up and down the companionway to drive several hundred persons ashore. The gangplank of the Aquitania was about to be drawn upon the pier as a woman rushed up it crying:

"My baby! I've lost my baby!"

Pier guards elicited from her that she had gone on board the ship with her child to say good-by to relatives and when she went back on the pier she thought the tot had toddled down the gangplank after her. The child had been swallowed in the excitement on the ship's deck, however.

A search for the missing child was instituted while the liner was held. Mother and volunteer searchers went from deck to deck. Up on the liner's bridge Capt. Sir James Charles paced back and forth impatiently.

Fifteen minutes elapsed. The sob of a small choked voice was heard in a stateroom. There one of the volunteer stewardesses, an English nurse, was endeavoring to comfort a little slip of a girl who was too frightened to speak. The mother was called and she picked up the child and hurried to the pier. Then the giant liner sailed away.—New York World.

Mistaken Identity.

A certain prominent engineer of Indianapolis decided to replenish his wardrobe, so he walked into a leading clothing store, approached a smiling gentleman in shirtsleeves and inquired of him: "Where are your collars?" The smiling gentleman ceased smiling, and pointing in the general direction of his neck, said: "Mine's here; where's yours?"

First gentleman grows angry and yells: "Now, don't you give me any smart talk. I came in here to buy a collar, and if you get smart I'll go some place else."

The second gentleman, also angry, replies: "Go ahead, I don't care, I came in here to buy something; I am not a clerk." First gentleman: "Thought you were a clerk, you look like one."

Fire Detector.

There has recently been introduced a compact fire detector which may be installed anywhere in conjunction with a simple electric bell and a few dry cells. The device is a highly sensitive automatic fire detector which quickly acts when the temperature rises above the ordinary. It is adjustable, can be tested, is so simple that it cannot get out of order, and can be installed by anyone. The detector may be installed in the cellar of the private house, the attic, the kitchen and elsewhere, either in single or multiple arrangement, so as to give warning of fire at the moment such fire breaks out. Again, it may be installed in the office, shop, factory or store.—Scientific American.

A Little Patriot.

The other day a parade headed by old soldiers was passing a Terre Haute (Ind.) schoolhouse. The primary teachers started to march their little pupils out to see it. All kept in line except one little fellow who dashed into the cloakroom after something. His teacher started after him to bring him back into line.

But he insisted on going into the room. "Please, Miss A——, I want to get my hat," he begged. "I always like to hold it in my hand when old soldiers and a flag are passing me."

Stolidity Of Germans Is Rebuilding Nation

By ALEXANDER M. THOMPSON
One of England's Foremost Writers On Labor Questions.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—We have had revolutionary movements, dictated by Moscow; we have had sectional strikes, instigated by Moscow; we have had disturbances at Socialist meetings, incited by Moscow," admitted Herr Sassenbach. "But now," complacently added the eloquent Labor leader, "the German workmen have returned to the good old German character, which does not like unrest."

Herr Leipart, the obviously intellectual successor to Legien in the general secretaryship of German trade unionism, cordially concurred in Herr Sassenbach's view, which has, moreover, been confirmed to me in a dozen talks with working men. When the revolution came and brought a Socialist saddler (Herr Ebert) to the Presidency of the Republic they expected the millennum. Their hopes were bitterly disappointed, and under the influence of the Muscovites they variously "manifested." But their spasmodic strikes failed, their riots failed, and alas! even Moscow failed; the very natural result being that, as Herr Sassenbach says, they "have now returned to the good old German character."

"We MUST WORK"

"We had thought," said a smart young workman to me at Spandau, "that when Ebert to power came socialism to power would come. But it now seems that we must longer wait. Ebert is a good fellow and does his best, but the war has made it difficult for him to carry out his program. So we wait, and, to make it easier for him, we must work."

That is "the good old German character"—pugnacious, yet wonderfully docile; hard to arouse, easy to placate. Will it uphold the Republic? I see the life-size portrait of the Kaiser still truculently conspicuous in the restaurants, and picture postcards of the Kroonprinz in pathetic poses in the shop windows, and—I wonder. This was not the way of France in 1870. When France scrapped Napoleon it also scrapped all records and reminders of him. But, was wollen Sie, the Germans are not French, nicht wahr? The good old German character does not like unrest.

There is some placid grumbling about wages. The workers tell me that their earnings have been multiplied by ten and the cost of living by fourteen or fifteen. When I showed an employer the figures which, in support of this statement, had been given to me by a workman, with a characteristic expression of exquisite urbanity he denied it. The fact nevertheless remains that butter, which was sold at 1 mark 20 pfennigs before the war now costs 28 marks (normally $7); milk has risen from 20 pfennigs per litre to 3 marks 60 pfennigs, and though the rate of exchange makes things cheap for the English visitor, the prices of commodities to German workmen must be terrific.

Skilled Are Discontented

In comparison with England, Herr Leipart tells me, the skilled workers are not as well paid. But the standard of the unskilled stands at something like 80 per cent of the skilled men's minimum. Employers tell me that the wages of the unskilled rose out of all proportion to those of the skilled workmen and that the craftsmen are consequently very discontented.

As for discontent, said Herr Sassenbach, "I continually address big meetings, but it has never been mentioned to me."

Trade unionism was not nearly as strong in Germany before the war as with us. In 1914 the total membership was two and one-half millions. At the end of the war it had dwindled to about half. Now it amounts to eight millions. When I congratulated Herr Sassenbach on this amazing increase he shrugged his shoulders despondently. "All is not good fish," he said, "that comes to the net. The newcomers include a great proportion of workers who had previously refused to join the unions, egoists and placeseekers, shouters and brawlers, men without experience or responsibility, who, by their loudness, captured the power. They have been the cause of all our troubles. But now the workmen are returning to the good old German character. They do not like unrest."

GOWN WORN BY JOHN WESLEY

English Wesleyan Body Receives Gift of Robe That Belonged to Founder of Methodism.

The Wesleyan Methodist Connexion has just received from one of its leading laymen a gown that belonged to the founder of Methodism, according to the London Daily News. John Wesley died in 1791, so that the garment is more than 130 years old.

Time has, of course, left its marks upon the gown. Some parts are discolored and others are worn and patched. The material is heavy, and upon it, worked in black, are flowers and prancing horses. As the great preacher was a little man, the gown must have hung about his heels.

It is claimed that the gown was a preaching gown, but it is very dissimilar to the ecclesiastical garment that, according to authentic records, John Wesley wore in the pulpit. This one possesses an ordinary sleeve, and, generally speaking, it seems to accord with the style of a black study-gown. The donor of the gown has also presented a pair of slippers belonging to Wesley. These are in good condition, and are of the kind that he would wear in his study.

Wesley, of course, traveled throughout Great Britain and Ireland in all weathers on his preaching tours, and it was suggested that he wore this heavy gown as a protection against atmospheric conditions.

The Wesley museum contains a large number of interesting relics of John and Charles Wesley. It possesses the study chair of John, and presently, as a gift from the donor of the gown, Charles Wesley's study chair will be placed there.

A large proportion of the visitors to the museum come from the overseas dominions and the United States, where the interest in all that relates to the early history of Methodism is very keen.

Whistle Easy to Play.

"So simple that even a child can use it" is a phrase commonly seen and heard these days, and which is applied with ease to a new whistle instrument, described with illustration in Popular Mechanics Magazine. By pulling and pushing a lever attached on the inside of its barrel to a small piston, the tones of the whistle are caused to change. This lever terminates on the outside in a triangular-shaped finger-piece running through a slotted plate. Markings representative of musical tones appear on the plate, and as the triangular lever moves into place before the markings, a correspondingly pitched musical tone issues from the whistle.

"RAZZ" EXPLAINS TO OFFICER WHY HE WAS HIDING

By THOMAS WRIGLEY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—"Big boy, I jest ain't comin' out, 'Ise too embarrassed."

With this announcement "Razz" Johnson, a negro truck driver, answered the insistent demands of Motorcycle Patrolman A. L. Pressley that he crawl from beneath his truck, which was stalled in the middle of one of this city's main traffic ways.

Pressley glanced beneath the truck. "Where's your clothes?" he demanded.

"They's wha clothes ain't ought to be," Razz explained. "I'm down here a-fixin' my truck when my gears or somethin' gets hold of my pants and well, that's all—my clothes ain't—that's all."

"Razz's" entire wardrobe consisted of a pair of shoes. The revolving rod of his machine had "stripped" him of the rest of his belongings.

Pressley stopped a passing motorist and secured the loan of a rain coat for "Rass."

"Sweet mamma, but I'se an embarrassed baby," "Razz" apostrophized as he drove away.

LAYMEN BAR CLERGY

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Sept. 9.—For the first time in the history of any denomination, Unitarian laymen will hold a conference here on September 16, 17 and 18, at which no clergymen will be present. The meeting will bring chapter presidents from all sections of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

The conference is the first ever held in the history of the Unitarian Church, and if successful will be made an annual event.

Among the subjects which will be discussed are disarmament and industrial conditions. Announcement will be made of the fact that one-half of the $5,000,000 fund for the Unitarian Church extension has already been raised.

BLACKBIRD IN THRUSH'S NEST

Correspondent of Scottish Newspaper Calls Attention to Remarkable Incident He Has Observed.

Last week I discovered in the ivy on a sunk wall in my garden a nest which had all the characteristics of a thrush's nest, with plastered lining only, and which contained two eggs, pale blue with small black spots—the eggs of a song thrush, writes a correspondent. Later on I noticed a bird sitting on the nest. Only the head was visible, but it appeared to me that the bird was a hen blackbird and not a thrush. It was some days before I found the bird off the nest, when on looking in, I discovered that the plastered lining of the nest had been slightly covered with dried grasses, and that the nest contained four blackbird's eggs—bluish green with mottled ends. The two thrush's eggs had disappeared. They could not be found at the foot of the wall below the nest, but there was found on a green above the wall the broken egg of a song thrush. When I discovered the nest part of its outer wall was slightly torn, as if a cat had climbed up the ivy and endeavored to claw out the bird then sitting. Is it possible that the thrush may have been scared away and the nest taken over by a blackbird and adapted to her requirements? None of my friends, versed in the habits of birds, ever heard of a similar case.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

People Generous With Tips.

New York likes to refer to its spendthrift millionaires. The head waiter of a magnificent eatery told me that for the bountiful gratuity he preferred the visiting sod-buster to the son of a millionaire. The young man from Hohokus having his annual fling has read so much about huge tips that he thinks anything under a $10 bill will be tossed back at him. The information volunteered by the head waiter came after a well-known spendthrift had departed with two young ladies. His dinner check came to $25 and he gave the waiter $2—the head waiter nothing. "And," continued the head waiter, "see that young fellow over there in the green suit with a large Adam's apple. He has been shucking off $5 bills to every waiter in the place. And he gave me a half century note. I'm afraid his keeper will be along soon and make us give it back."—Exchange.

See Eve as Idealistic Woman.

Most Italian women if they had their choice to be anything they wished in their sex, would rather be Eve, according to results of a vote recently taken by one of the Roman papers.

The argument advanced for being Eve was that she, of all women, had no competition. Her husband was never away from home and there was no other woman on whom he might cast an alluring glance.

Those who did not choose to be Eve chose for the most part to be Mary Magdalen, because, after being allowed to enjoy all the sins of the world, she was forgiven and afterward became a saint, thereby enjoying all joys of heaven.

Unearth Home of Cave Men.

One of the most comprehensive of many finds of relics of prehistoric man in Austria has been discovered in a cave near Mixnitx. The cavern known as "Dragon's Den," is being excavated for enormous deposits of phosphate. In a side cave 1,000 yards from the opening, evidences of human occupation in ancient times were uncovered. Great quantities of quartz implements and other utensils and human bones have been taken out.

JAPS REACH 123RD REGULATION FOR UNCLE SAMUEL

By DUKE N. PARRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKIO, Sept. 9.—Comes suggestion number one hundred and twenty-three as to the preliminary measures to the Washington Pacific and Disarmament Conference. It is from Tokio and springs from the fertile brain of Japan's representative at The Hague Peace Conference, himself famed in his own land as an authority on international law, Dr. Niichiro Matsunami. Dr. Matsunami's opinion, be it said in Japan's defense, is not taken seriously here. But it represents, nevertheless, something that the people of Japan read and may explain to Americans why the lower classes of Japan are often guilty of open antagonism to America.

First, says Dr. Matsunami, return the greater part of the United States to the Indians, from whom it originally came. The problem of finding the Indians is not dealt with by the doctor, but nevertheless, he says, before asking Japan to make any changes in her policy, first let America be returned to the Indians. Second, internationalize the Panama Canal. Third, let the United States surrender Hawaii, the Philippines, then call England to the bar of International Justice.

Wants England Punished

For England — let England grant Canada, Australia and India independence. Let Hongkong be returned to China. Then, and only then, let the Pacific Conference be called, and Japan may be willing to discuss what she will do.

"If the Chinese question is to be discussed at the conference," says Dr. Matsunami, "there is no reason why the Mexican question should be withheld. Japan is not the only country suffering from the disturbed situation in Mexico.

"The Panama Canal will be a fit subject for discussion at the conference. America declares that the canal was opened for the benefit of the world at large, but no unbiased observer will say that the canal is being operated with special regard for the welfare of the world. Why does not Japan offer to undertake the task of making the canal more international with regard to administration? There is no reason why it should not be internationalized, as the expressed purpose of America has been internationalization.

"These questions should be settled at the same time of the conference. Indeed they should be settled first, since it is the American government that has called the conference.

Dr. Matsunami is quoted in the Yamato, which is not one of the leading Japanese newspapers, so his views should not be taken too seriously.

BOOZE PRICES DECLINE

(By International News Service)

AKRON, O., Sept. 9.—Competition for business between Akron bootleggers is becoming so keen that a marked drop in the price of alcoholic drinks is reported here by Lieutenant Frank E. McGuire, in charge of enforcement of the State Prohibition law. He blames the condition upon low fines and lenient sentences imposed by judges, saying Akron judges put maximum fines at $100.

"So much raisin jack is being made that the price of drinks is coming down," he declared. The same sized drink that used to cost fifty cents can be obtained for twenty-five or thirty-five cents."

FATHER OF MODERN NOVELIST.

Minstrel, Centuries Ago, Held Audiences Very Much as Does the Writer of Today.

The old tale tellers, the minstrels, the palmers, the friars, the pedlers, were the remote ancestors of the novelist of today. The minstrel supplied a social need in his day. He was a circulating library when, as yet, there was no circle of readers, and besides being the medieval novelist, he was the medieval publisher. As he drew his bow across his viol or swept the strings of his harp, and prayed audience for some romance of chivalry, the boastings and bickerings of the common hall were silenced, and the rude roar of the market place was hushed.

By the end of the Eleventh century something more was wanted, and the literary craftsman of the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries wove his romances of chivalry to meet the needs of society. These romances violated every canon of literary art, but it was not as literature that he looked at them—rather as a gorgeous tapestry set in the framework of chivalry. The influence these stories exercised on the national life of England was prodigious, and of the three groups into which they fell—the matter of Britain and the matter of Rome the Great—the most popular belonged to the second. Dealing with the story of King Arthur and the Round Table, Lord Ernle once said it was probably partly patriotism and partly religion which made Sir Thomas Mallory choose this group of the medieval romances of chivalry. Partly, also, it was a true instinct of literary genius, for this was the one group which had in it the enduring elements of vitality. That group alone gave us the inward and spiritual meanings, the capacity for allegorical interpretation, the mystical symbolisms which were living, lasting influences, because successive generations could appropriate them to their own needs and circumstances.—London Telegraph.

AUTO THAT ACTUALLY JUMPS

Car's Peculiar Feature Based on the Principle That Actuates the Knee of the Athlete.

The jumping stunts of automobiles in the movies are the result of trick photographs. There has been produced in France a light car that does many of these spectacular performances, not only pictorially, but actually, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It is a small, light car with a speed of 25 miles an hour. The particular feature that enables the car to negotiate all obstacles with impunity is the manner of connecting the car to the rear wheels. It has been compared with the action of the human knee. A jumper bends his legs at the knees, straightens them out rapidly to get the effect of a spring. The rear wheels do the same thing. On striking an obstacle the wheels rise independently of the rest of the car, which remains horizontal. Under test, when driven against an obstacle 40 inches high, with an approach sloping at 45 degrees, the car was lifted to a height of 57 inches and landed at a distance of 20 feet, all four wheels striking the ground simultaneously. On landing, the spring in the wheel connection cushions the concussion of the wheel with the ground, again resembling the action of a jumper's knee, which bends under him as he alights.

Curiosity.

In a street car the other day a man and his wife saw a cockroach on the floor.

"I never see one of those things," said the man, "without wondering where it came from."

"And I never see one," said the wife, "without wondering where it is going."—Youngstown Telegram.

HAD TO DO MORE THAN PRAY

Lone Beaver Found He Had Taken the Words of the Preacher Altogether Too Literally.

As Lone Beaver sat in the mission house and listened to the words of the preacher, he had an inspiration. Only by hard work had he been able to live. He worked about the Hudson's Bay company's post in summer and spent the winter in the snow-drifted forest on his trap lines.

"Verily I say unto you," said the preacher in his sermon, "go to the Lord in prayer for what you want, and if you have faith it will be given you."

Lone Beaver went to his teepee and fell on his knees. "O Lord," he prayed, "bring me a sack of flour, a side of bacon, one box of tea and one box of sugar."

He waited until late afternoon in vain. It occurred to him that as he had never seen the Lord, he perhaps had asked too much of a stranger.

"O Lord," he prayed again apologetically, "bring me only half of what I asked before."

Still nothing happened. Supper time came and Lone Beaver was hungry.

"O Lord," he cried desperately, "bring me a plate of beans."

That seemed little enough to ask, but not a bean came in answer. This was too much for Lone Beaver, and he voiced his lost faith in angry words.

"O Lord," he said, "you are just the same as the Hudson's Bay company. Hunt, trap, fish or no eat."—Chicago Evening Post.

Forgers Use New Method.

An original touch in forgery is reported by the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Mail. Making forged notes dirty in order that they might look real is said to have been the method adopted by four men who have just been arrested at Limoges on a charge of counterfeiting the small brown one-franc notes (nominally 10d.) which are in circulation in Paris owing to the shortage of silver ones.

After printing off bundles of notes of a face value of £7,000, the men, it is stated, buried them in the ground for a fortnight. The notes then had a crumpled and dirty appearance as if they had been a long time in use, and were readily accepted. In some cases the forged notes were accepted in bundles of 50 at local banks.

CAN ONLY SEE DARK SIDE

Unfortunate Individuals Are Those Who Essay to Make Conversation About the Weather.

The weather is a singularly unfortunate institution. When it is bad it is freely abused; when it is good it becomes an object for profound suspicion. A wet day is an abomination; a fine one is an incipient drought. Three fine days in succession are enough to bring into blossom little paragraphs announcing that somebody's water supply will shortly have to be curtailed, and a week of them sees the farmers of Blankshire eloquently face to face with approaching ruin. A bad summer will not bear thinking about; a good one is proof that the climate of Europe is rapidly changing, that the North pole will soon enjoy the temperature of the equator, and that a few more thousand years will see mankind finally frizzled off the surface of a thoroughly inhospitable planet. This grateful and comforting game of looking a gift horse in the mouth is now being applied to the only good result of the coal stoppage—our cleaner atmosphere. Having survived the first shock of ill-considered gratitude at being able to see their own city, many Londoners, an evening paper announces, are now discovering that a feeling of lassitude and an overpowering inclination to yawn are the result of living in an unusually pure atmosphere.—Manchester Guardian.

Prompt Delivery.

George L. Loft, son of the candy magnate and former congressman, created a sensation on the stock exchange recently, when he sold a suit of clothes off his back for $30 and made spot delivery. The young broker breezed onto the floor of the exchange early in the session, wearing a brand-new Palm Beach suit. It was so conspicuous some of his colleagues roughed him a bit and in the fracas the coat was torn slightly. Thereupon Loft yelled out for a bid for the outfit, just as if he were selling 100 shares of Loft, Inc. A broker in the crowd snapped back a bid of $30 and demanded instantaneous delivery. Loft was game. He peeled off his coat and then shed his trousers and departed for the Luncheon club attired in his B. V. Ds. He was able to resume business later through the discovery of an old suit of clothes in a locker.—New York Tribune.

Doubles Shooting Popular.

Doubles shooting is gaining great popularity among trapshooters of this country. By doubles shooting is meant the release of two targets at the same time, one to the left and the other to the right. The shooter then tries to break both of them before they fall to the ground, firing one load at each target. This is a real test of shooting ability, and for this reason it is gaining in popularity. No one seeks a real test of his ability more than a trapshot. Because of the increased interest in this phase of the sport it is apparent that the doubles championship tournament at the Grand American handicap this year will be a much better event than in the past. The shooters have had greater practice at this style of shooting than ever before.

MODELS SABER-TOOTH TIGER

Los Angeles Man Has Fashioned a Reproduction of Most Terrible Prehistoric Beast.

Gone from the earth before the contract was let for the Pyramids, the ferocious and all-devouring saber-toothed tiger that ruled the animal kingdom 200,000 years ago has no secrets from the scientists of today, and a Los Angeles man even has gone so far as to sculpture in concrete what he considers to be a perfect reproduction of the terrible monster with the sabered mouth.

The scientist, William Spalding, has the sculptured piece in the workshop at his residence. He was president of the Southern California Academy of Science for four terms, and in that capacity he had occasion to learn as much about the saber-toothed tiger as men of today are permitted to know.

He was instrumental in opening the famous fossil beds at Brea, where the remains of the tigers were found in good enough preservation to reconstruct the skeletons.

From the relics of the skeletons, uncovered in the Brea pits, he has concluded that the tigers of 200,000 years ago were similar in size to the Bengals of today, differing essentially from them in their outstanding feature—the long saber teeth from which no enemy could be safe.

With the skeleton remains of the tigers sufficiently reproduced to outline the forms and physical characteristics of the tigers, Mr. Spalding found little difficulty in making a likeness of the animal. In his art work he has reproduced the skeleton proportions and added the external characteristics of the cat family, whereby he believes a perfect copy has been accomplished of the fire-eyed feline demon that roamed supreme in the days before man was.—Los Angeles Express.

DOES AWAY WITH ALL PAIN

Remarkable Anesthetic May Soon Be Employed in Delicate Dental Surgical Operations.

A coal-tar chemical for the elimination of all pain in dental surgical operations, simple of application and suitable for repeated and universal use in oral surgery, according to the Scientific American, is announced by Dr. Joseph A. Klein of New York city.

This new chemical is liquid in form, is applied on a pellet of cotton to the gum or mucous membrane surrounding the tooth to be anesthetized or into a cavity prior to excavation where a tooth is to be filled or treated. It produces complete local anesthesia in from two to eight minutes and eliminates all feeling for from one to six hours.

Doctor Klein has extracted teeth and pulps painlessly by the use of this chemical. Its effect is entirely local, so it may be applied with perfect safety, regardless of the patient's age or general physical condition, and it is particularly valuable as an anesthetic in the extraction of children's teeth. It leaves no disagreeable after-effect, but because of its long period of activity gives the nervous system ample time to recover from the shock of operation before the nerves in the area of the operation regain their normal feeling or activity.

A Japanese Garden.

The typically Japanese garden of Mr. Inabata, a Kyoto millionaire, near Nanzeiji temple is described by a correspondent. It is a good example of the Japanese talent for concealing art; it contains a twin waterfall not only artificial but even said to be exact miniature of some famous Japanese fall; but which looks as if it had like Topsy, "just growed;" also a large artificial cave with walls of rough concrete which would hardly "give it away," but for the electric lights in the roof and the switches for turning on the "dripping well." The water is derived from the Biwa canal, which flows just outside. A minor curiosity is a stone lantern with a high peaked top formed by a tiger standing on its head; these now meaningless ishidoro are seen everywhere, but hardly ever is any such liberty taken with the conventional form.

Florida's Entry Into Union.

One hundred years ago the Stars and Stripes supplanted the flag of Spain in Florida, which became a part of the United States. The sum paid Spain, including the payments to claimants for damages, was $6,489,768 for a territory that included 59,268 square miles.—Miami Herald.

An Imaginary Illness

By HAZEL SMITH

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Mrs. Susan Roberts was a chronic invalid. She knew it herself. She had influenced the more impressible of her friends with the conviction. As to her devoted but unfortunate husband, whatever his opinion he fully realized that she was making home life about as wretched and uninviting as it could well be.

What had started well and healthy Mrs. Roberts on the downward road to despair and dissolution, was the visit to the town of a quack. This irresponsible individual scattered a pamphlet describing his nostrums and dwelling gravely upon the dangers of "wasting away." Just at that time Mrs. Roberts had lost ten pounds. It was warm weather that had reduced her flesh, and when she began to worry over her fancied ailments she lost ten more.

Young Dr. Allen was called in. At the outset he told his patient that there was nothing in the world the matter with her.

"If Lucy Day was only married off," she was wont to say lugubriously, "I would rest more easily in my grave from a sense of duty done."

Dear Lucy! the saving grace of the situation. She was pretty as a picture, and loved company and pleasure as well as any live healthy Miss of eighteen. She felt great gratitude, however, towards the aunt, who had taken care of her since she had been left an orphan. She had learned to take most of the household work on her own young willing shoulders when her aunt was well. When her fancied ailments came upon her there were added the duties of a patient, untiring nurse.

Lucy therefore had little time to think of beaux or parties. As to love, her practical life banished romance. It was true she had flushed and her heart beat a trifle faster when, in assisting Dr. Allen to prepare a bandage for her aunt, their hands met and he gave her a kindly smile. Later he had invited her to a local entertainment.

"I dare not leave my aunt, Dr. Allen," she said plainly. "Only make her well, and it would be a great pleasure to accompany you."

One day Dr. Allen met John Roberts on the street. He had not called on his patient for several days, and he naturally asked her husband how his wife was getting along.

"Poorly, doctor, very poorly," replied John gloomily. "Now she insists she is losing the use of her limbs."

"Indeed, how is that?" questioned the doctor.

"Fell over a chair and lamed her foot."

A speculative look came into the doctor's face. He smiled slightly and his eyes brightened.

"Somehow we have got to get your wife's mind away from her hobby," said the doctor. "The bruised foot will do it."

Dr. Allen arrived at the Roberts home that night to find the invalid occupying her customary couch downstairs. The doctor finally got to the point of inspecting the injured foot.

The grave way his face drew down at once attracted his patient's attention. She became interested as he pronounced the mystic words "pedallic obstruction of the oblongata," then alarmed as he said seriously:

"This is a vital case, Mrs. Roberts. Your foot must receive the most careful treatment."

Inside of two days Mrs. Roberts had wandering aches and pains. The doctor nursed her fears. He hinted at a possible operation.

"Doctor Allen, isn't it a little cruel to keep up this farce?" remonstrated the gentle-hearted Lucy one day.

"What! When I am satisfied that it will lead to your accepting that invitation of mine?" smiled the doctor. "Why, my dear little friend, your aunt is eating anything and everything to counteract 'the toxic influence of that oblongata,' isn't she? That's all she needed—good solid nourishment."

One day the doctor placed a metallic strip in the bandage around his patient's foot. When he took it out the next morning he dropped it into some liquid. It hissed and sizzled, as he intended. Some more scientific hocus pocus. Then he washed off the coloring and said the toxin was all out of his patient's system.

"You are a well woman—get weighed," he advised.

When Mrs. Roberts tipped the scales at 165 pounds, showing her loss regained and five pounds to the good, she screamed in joyful hysterics. Then she laughed, danced, and—no more wasting away!

Dr. Allen made a call—not professional this time—on his patient next day.

"Mrs. Roberts," he said, "you used to worry a good deal because Lucy wasn't married off, do you remember?"

"Why—yes," she admitted, wondering what was coming next.

"Well, I want to take her off your hands," smiled the doctor. "We are engaged, and that 'change' I ordered for you can include a pleasant shopping trip to the city, selecting her wedding trousseau."

A Defense of Nero.

Uncle Walt's Story

MAKING WORK EASY

"MRS. SIDEWINDER made a sensible talk at our club meeting yesterday," explained Mrs. Jamesworthy. "She said there are many disagreeable tasks which might be made easy and pleasant if women worked together at them. Things that are tedious when one does them alone, are interesting when done by a crowd. She pointed out that the dandelions are becoming a terrible pest, ruining most of the lawns in towns, and suggested that the women hold dandelion parties."

"I can imagine the rest," said Jamesworthy. "You don't need to hand out the sickening details. A gang of old beldames will come to our place, for instance, and pull about five cents' worth of dandelions and then sit and have a photographer make a large picture of them; after which they'll eat two dollars and eighty cents' worth of ice cream, and a lot of sponge cake and anything you happen to have in the refrigerator. One of the beldames will be appointed a committee to write up the affair for the newspapers, and Mrs. Sidewinder will see that she gets most of the glory as the originator of the scheme, and next spring her husband will be running for alderman on the strength of it.

"Nowadays the women never get down to brass tacks and do real work. They must make a society function out of every little chore they do. They won't carry a dead cat out of the front yard unless there's a photographer on hand to make a group picture of it. If work can be reorganized so it looks like a game they will be industrious enough, otherwise they strike and send communications to the newspapers explaining that no woman should permit herself to be a drudge.

"One able-bodied man will destroy more dandelions in half a day than 18 women will in three weeks. The man takes off his coat and gets down on his marrowbones and pulls dandelions. The 18 women lean against trees and fan themselves with Japanese fans, and try to look like so many Mary Andersons, and wish there was somebody around to set them to music.

"Women are becoming more and more an expensive luxury since they organized themselves into clubs. I have nothing to say against the club idea in itself, Mrs. Jamesworthy. I want to see the females have as good a time as they can, within reasonable limits. The men belong to clubs and lodges, too, but they have halls in which to hold their meetings.

"The women wouldn't enjoy holding a meeting in a hall. They have to assemble in the home of one of their suffering sisters, so they can size up the furniture and fittings, and be able to say, when they go away, that they never saw such execrable taste. And the suffering sister sees that her home is a frost, and she makes up her mind to give her heart-sick husband no rest until he has chartered a string of painters and paper-hangers, decorators and glaziers.

"But this isn't the worst of it. The suffering sister who entertains the club is expected to set up refreshments, and she feels it her duty, as a good sport, to furnish the best the market affords. The last time the ladies of the Busy Bunch club met at this house you bought all the strawberries in town, and at that period strawberries were shipped in from points 5,000 miles away, and when the bill came in, at the end of the month, I had a stroke of paralysis and an attack of paresis. If you get up a dandelion party you will want to buy out the leading confectioner, so I'll advertise for a man to come and do the job."

One Good Point.

A very kind-hearted man could never be brought to say an unkind word about anybody. One day a friend expostulated with him.

"Look here," he said, "it's all very well being charitable and all that, but you can carry that sort of thing too far. Now, there's Blank. Can you honestly find a single good point about Blank?"

The kind-hearted man appeared to be nonplused, for Blank was a very bad man, and it seemed impossible to find anything good to say about him.

"Well," he said, at length, "you must admit he wears a fine fur-lined coat!"

Chinese Carry Stoves.

Chinese women wear practically the same clothes in winter as in summer. In the most severe weather, however, they wear heating baskets under their cloaks.

These baskets are plain wicker ones, such as we use for trash. Inside the baskets charcoal warmers are placed. They will radiate heat for hours. The charcoal is mixed with chemicals that generate oxygen, and thus the charcoal will burn constantly even though it is sealed in the containers.

A drop of vanilla added to each cup of cocoa after pouring, will improve the flavor wonderfully. The extra drop will not be regretted.

Wearied Of Crime, Doctor Seeks Death

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANON CITY, Col., Sept. 9.—That Dr. William F. Warner, 70, who has spent 20 years of his life behind prison walls, will end his career by dying in jail is the belief of officials at the state penitentiary here, who have been warned that the elderly "con man" may attempt suicide.

Warner started this week on a five to ten-year term, his eighth penitentiary sentence, following his plea of guilty in Denver criminal court to a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses.

In a written confession presented to Judge Warren A. Haggott, in the Denver West Side Court, just before he was sentenced, Warner wrote:

"I have found a solution of all my troubles and worry."

Then followed a Latin quotation that was translated to mean "there is one ultimate remedy."

"The fitting end of a life that has been tainted with dishonor is the obscurity of a prison—or death." Warner's confession continued, "and I do not fear either—the latter less than the former."

Officials believe this to be a hint that he may be contemplating taking his own life, and he is being watched carefully by prison guards.

Warner related a graphic picture of his fall from a position of respect to the career of a felon. He said he was graduated from a Philadelphia medical school in 1879 and practised his profession in that city until 1882, when he first fell into the clutches of the law and was given a two-year prison sentence in the Pennsylvania city after being convicted of a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses, under the name of William Hallman.

In 1887, he said, he was sentenced in Philadelphia to four years' imprisonment for grand larceny under the name of Emil Dorn.

Other prison sentences received by Warner, he said were:

Two years for larcey, in 1894: three years for larceny and false pretenses in 1903, three years for forgery in 1906, three years in Pittsburg, in 1911, for larceny, and three years in 1915 in Illinois for false pretenses.

In his written confession to the court Warner stated that during the last two years he had deposited spurious drafts for collection in more than one hundred banks in ten states. He declared he would have collected hundreds of thousands of dollars if his courage had not failed him when some checks he had drawn on these accounts were questioned.

"Whenever the bankers seemed to doubt the story I told I never tried to cash checks on these fraudulent drafts," Warner declared. "But in scores of cases they cashed the checks without question."

Frequently, according to the confession, Warner has found it to his advantage to consort with widows in various parts of the country in his operations, using them to identify him at banks.

Warner deposited a bogus draft at a Denver bank last June. He was later arrested in Salt Lake City and taken to the Colorado metropolis for trial.

OH, BOY!

(By International News Service)

HONOLULU Sept. 9.—Due to the lack of wood fuel available for use in stoves in its employes' houses, combined with the low market price offered for molasses, the Maui Agricultural Company, one of the largest Hawaiian sugar companies, is making extensive experiments in the production of fuel alcohol from molasses, and officials of the company report that the experiments are successful.

Making use of the new type of still, it is found that about 55 gallons of alcohol can be produced per ton of molasses. At an estimated price of $4 per ton for molasses, the cost of fuel alcohol is brought down to less than eight cents per gallon.

ALBERTA'S WHEAT CROP

(By International News Service)

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 9.—The harvest is drawing to a close in Western Canada. Manitoba and Saskatchewan expect larger harvests than last year, while Alberta's crop is expected to be about the same.

Excellent filling and ripening weather prevailed for two weeks immediately preceding the commencement of cutting. The Alberta wheat crop is estimated at 82,000,000 bushels, an average of about twenty-five bushels to the acre.

The Saskatchewan harvest of wheat, oats, barley and flax is estimated at around 275,000,000 bushels.

A delicate thickening of soups is made by the use of Pearl of Tapioca. Boil the tapioca until clear and then strain the liquid into soup. The result is clear soup.

CHEVROLET AGENT FINDS BUSINESS ROLLING ALONG

"Is business good? I'll say so," says Mr. Tarr of the firm of Fish & Tarr, Chevrolet agents for Glendale, with showrooms on east Broadway. "There never was a time when business in Glendale was better. Since the drop in the price of Chevrolet automobiles, which took place September 3, we have sold cars hand over fist. It seems as though about half of Glendale was just waiting for our cars to get a little cheaper—a little nearer to their pocketbooks—and now that the price has been dropped they are making up for lost time.

"It looks to me as though business throughout the entire country will pick up from now on. The Santa Fe railroad has made a tremendous cut in its rates, and this alone has had a wonderul effect in the way of stimulating business. Just to give an example of the way this drop in freight rates will affect motor cars, for instance it may be said that this drop means a saving to the consumer of $20 on every automobile that is purchased in Glendale. That is what I call some saving. Then with the drop of $100 per car that was made by the Chevrolet people on September 3, it is easy to see why cars are selling like hot cakes."

Up to this time the distribution of Chevrolet cars has been made from the Oakland factory, but so rapid have the orders been received that it is now necessary to call for machines from the main factory in St. Louis.

HORSE PLAYS BILLYGOAT

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—A billygoat didn't eat the evidence because there isn't any billygoat at police headquarters here. So it was blamed upon a horse.

The motor car in which General Jose Alessio Robles was riding when he was shot and killed, it is charged, by General Jacinto B. Trevino and three companions, was moved to the court yard at police headquarters after the tragedy, with the Trevino automobile. Both were important pieces of evidence, as bullet holes in the machine told a story of the murder which would have had much to do with the fate of General Trevino and his companions.

The Alessio Robles car, with its bullet-torn top, was particularly important. But this evidence was eaten. The police think the top of the motor car satisfied the appetite of a hungry horse.

WHITE WOMEN SUE FOR RED HUBBY'S LARGE ESTATE

(By International News Service)

FAIRFAX, Okla., Sept. 9.—Two white women today are battling for the rich estate of an aged Osage warrior, each claiming to have been his wife.

Three Striker, so named because he killed three Cherokees in the last battle between that tribe and the Osages, died in an asylum, W. E. McGuire being appointed administrator of his wealthy estate

During his lifetime Three Striker had always longed for a "pale-face" wife. At the age of 70 he was legally married to a white woman, his tribal wife having died some years before.

The sea of matrimony became turbulent with his white wife. He decided that no "pale face" should gain his riches, and subsequently he filed suit for annulment of his marriage, Mrs. Three Striker drawing $500 monthly alimony.

Following the death of Three Striker his divorced wife began proceedings to have set aside the anulment decree and laid claim to his holdings. Following publication of the facts in the case another white woman now has come forward seeking to gain possession of the estate. The woman claims she was married to Three Striker fifteen years ago and was never legally divorced. The case is docketed in the district court.

INDIA'S REBELS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9.—"There seems to be a silent revolution among Indians against the British Government by native fanatics, led by educated natives who are against the uplift of the lower classes," said W. E. Bancroft, of this city. Mr. Bancroft served in India for 15 years as a missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He believes the extensive movement against British rule in India is a cleverly disguised conspiracy against western Christian civilization.

"For the last 30 years the leaders of the extremists have been striving hard to check the onward progress of western ideals and civilization in India," Mr. Bancroft continued.

"It may be that these leaders hope to secure control of the natives to exploit the illiterate masses. Only 10 per cent of the male population and 1 per cent of the female are literate," he declared.

GERMAN BARONESS ENDS TRIP TO U. S.

(By International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 9.—From a castle on the Rhine to a dirty cell in the dilapidated County Jail at Albuquerque, New Mexico, is a synopsis of the story of the aged Baroness Victoria Wolff Von Totenworth, the last chapter of which was written here when agents of the Department of Justice arrested her for entering the United States without a passport as she stepped from the train which carried her from the Mexican border. With her was her son, Erwin Dathe, former German army officer.

The mother and son sailed from Germany on a Dutch steamer, landing at Vera Cruz, Mexico. They travelled by rail to Juarez, Mexico, just across the international bridge from El Paso, Texas. Learning that they could not obtain passports they walked across the banks of the Rio Grande and crossed the border north of El Paso, according to the story of immigration agents.

The fifty-mile hike between Juarez and Las Cruces, New Mexico, over mountains and across desert stretches was made with extreme difficulty. Dathe was forced to carry his aged mother time and time again when her feet refused to carry her through the deep desert sand. They said that only the hope of starting life anew in the United States carried them on.

The baroness told immigration officers that the first installment of her misfortune came when she learned that her husband had gambled away their fortune at Monte Carlo. He committed suicide and left his titled wife alone to face eviction from their home. At this time their son was stationed in China. As soon as his discharge could be obtained he joined his mother in Hamburg, Germany, and they left for the United States, with just enough money to pay their fare here.

"Living is impossible in Germany," said the baroness, as she pleaded with officers to be allowed to remain here. "I am a good cook. I would rather be a cook in America than depend for my living on my friends in Germany."

The two will be deported to Germany.

NOT TURNED TO DUST YET

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A human heart preserved in alcohol and enclosed in a bronze vase bearing the date, January, 1743, and a Latin inscription, "You are dust; you return to dust," has been discovered in a tomb in a convent at Geneva.

The heart is believed to be that of one of the Dukes of Milan. The convent was built in the 13th century.

McGEE'S BANNER SALE

Beginning Saturday, September 10th

And Continuing Until Saturday, Sept. 17th

We are placing our entire stock of

DRY GOODS, FURNISHINGS and SHOES

on sale at

Greatly Reduced Prices

Our last sale in June this year was a great success and we are determined to make this even greater. Our Fall stock is coming in and all goes on sale with the old.

Prices in many lines of cotton goods have recently advanced sharply. Nevertheless we are cutting our prices right down to the lowest possible point.

We want every man, woman and child in Glendale to become well acquainted with McGee's store. You, Mr. Newcomer, we want you to come into our store and get acquainted.

We can give but few prices in this circular, but those quoted will give you an idea of what we are doing. Remember this is not a sale where a few items are marked down and others marked up to even matters up. But every article and item in the store is reduced during these seven days, and also this is not the result of lower wholesale prices or general market conditions. Or, in other words, prices will go right back Monday morning after the sale is over. These prices are for seven days only.

Remember you now have the opportunity to select your Fall supply from a Fourteen Thousand Dollar stock at in many instances less than pre-war prices.

Dress According To Work, Girls Advise

Written by MARGERY REX for the International News Service

New YORK, Sept. 9.—After a recent article by the writer on women's dress today, its follies and its handicaps, there came to the office the amazing suggestion that rich women should compel their poorer sisters to dress plainly and simply.

The idea was embodied in a letter which declared its author herself to have been a working woman at one time. Yet she submitted this opinion—that it would be better for everybody concerned if the poor didn't try to dress according to the examples set by their so-called "betters."

Naturally this opinion has met with opposition.

Several letters came in which contain the other side of the question—ideas worth attention. Here is one:

Here's an Indignant Protest

"My dear Miss Rex:

"How ridiculous. It is up to the rich women to put the poorer class in their place and make them realize they must dress according to their station! This cut me to the quick.

"Who are these rich women that it is up to them to put the poorer class in their place?

"I will admit that we should not try to imitiate our wealthy sisters in dress, because, after all, Miss Rex, do they really dress with discretion and modesty? I have mingled with a few of them, so I know whereof I speak.

"Because we are less fortunate, and I will not say that we are less fortunate in every respect, are we to be ridiculed because we are fond of pretty clothes?

"A well-dressed girl has a much better chance than her dowdy sister, or I should say plainer sister, either in the business world or socially. I speak from experience. In the business world the better-dressed girl will always secure a position and keep it. Socially, the better-dressed girl will always secure admirers. Her poorer or plainer-dressed sister in all probability has more brains, is more intelligent in every way, but she is not given a chance to prove it, because it is the attractive girl that attracts. The attractive girl does not always prove stupid, either. Neither is the attractive girl attractive because she paints and powders. So you see the plainer girl surely hasn't a ghost of a chance.

Employers Not Complaining

"After all, Miss Rex, we work six days out of seven. We spend the biggest part of our lives at work. We meet more people there than we would probably meet anywhere in a month of Sundays. So if we saved our clothes for Sundays they would be old-fashioned before many Sundays would pass. Nice clothing makes us feel better. It makes us look better. And I am positive our employers are well satisfied with our appearance, despite the fact that some people with nothing else to do are struggling hard to put the 'blue law' on a poor working girl's clothes and take away what little pleasure she has.

"Please do not misunderstand me, Miss Rex. I am not condemning the wealthy. I do not begrudge them their riches. It is only that they have nothing else to do and are looking for trouble. If I only had that wonderful art of knowing how to convey my thoughts on paper and make myself better understood I should love to write a book. With all good wishes.

"Sincerely, LORETTA."

I am sure that Loretta would not want business women to overdress or appear inappropriately clad. Yet every girl has a right to appear smartly gowned wherever she may be and as well as she can afford.

"L. M. G." writes me in another vein. She asks where the responsibility should be placed.

Would Place Responsibility

"Things have been happening right along which would cause a good bit of discussion if one wished to comment on them, but a great characteristic of the people of America is that they are happy and good-natured and believe in 'Live and Let Live.' With this idea in mind they have let quite a bit pass, not unnoticed, but without any particular attention. But when such a thing as this arises it is about time we gave our opinion.

"We have really always felt a great pity for these 'rich' people who really do not know the happiness of life, so you can realize how absurd it would be for us to ask them how we should spend our money. Any rich woman's suggestion on this subject we would smile at and pass over.

"Upon reading these letters one would see that they really thought they were doing us a favor.

"As far as changing the style is concerned, no doubt we all could come to an agreement on that, but when one puts it that the rich should put the poor in their place you can see it places it in a different light. Especially when one takes into consideration the fact that the class to which they are appealing for help are always the ones who are the first to buy and flaunt these styles to the public.

"A great number of the so-called poor girls have unfortunately copied the habits as well as the dress of the rich.

"Allowing that some of the styles are absurd, I think we can mostly all agree as to who is to blame for them.

"As to the suggestion that they design different styles, that we agree upon, but when some one suggests that people be made to dress in such a manner as to make it easy for the passerby to know to what station in life they belong, I can only say that it is very insulting, and feel sure that a greater majority will agree with me than disagree. L. M. G."

Another reader joins Miss L. M. G. in asserting this to be a free country so far at least as dress is concerned.

Free Country as to Dress

"My dear Miss Rex," she begins, "I read your article regarding dress reform and I wish to say that I, as a sensible business girl, and not a flapper, suggest that these wealthy ladies of society wear broad-toed shoes and the like—that they set the example of dress and if the working girls are improperly dressed so are these society ladies, because they go to greater extremes than the working girl.

"How can a government force a person to wear a certain thing, especially in America? Isn't America supposed to be a free country? 'Liberty' is her watchword, therefore let us have it.

Sincerely, Miss A. C."

I agree with L. M. G. that designs made in America might do away with some of the painful extremities to which the copiers of foreign freak styles have subjected us. Cheaper clothes are often merely more or less faithful copies of expensive models designed for women of leisure. The copy worn in a different atmosphere than the one which the original was intended to grace, is revealed in the absurdity which might not be apparent in a less practical environment.

But in spite of all her critics we notice that the average girl in office and shop is not hard on the eye and is not apt to disgrace herself, her sex or her employer by freak dressing.

Many Suffer for Few Foolish

Of course the young thing with the all-too-visible knees, peeping coyly through chiffon stockings, with foolish sleeves, impractical dress and with her crowning glory of frizzled bobbed hair which would make a Fiji Islander throw cocoanuts at her—for this damsel and for her sartorial sins must all her fellow workers suffer?

There are some freaks in the working world as well as in society. But is it up to the leaders in both lines of endeavor simply—we won't say classes," this is a democracy—to set a good example?

And let us have better clothes for less money, and not very cheap copies of things fit only for a musical extravaganza.

CIVICS CLUB WILL SELL ITS PROPERTY

At a recent called meeting of the Thursday (Afternoon) Civics Club, the members voted to sell the lot owned by the organization on the corner of Maryland and Cypress avenues, for $1,800. The papers are now in escrow. No vote has yet been taken on the disposition of the funds but it is the expectation they will be loaned and the interest be used for club purposes.

Mrs. William Hillman and two sons from Tulare, Miss Ida Myers and Miss Duncan, all of 1607 San Fernando road, have gone to Catalina for a short time.
